WOMAN FACES FIRST DEGREE

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Charge of first degree murder was being prepared here today against Mrs. Margaret Willis, and prosecutors will demand that she be given the extreme penalty for the slaying of Dr. Benjamin Baldwin.

District Attorney Asa Keyes said the prosecutions case is nearly complete, enabling the state to go into court asking that the woman who has admitted the killing be given the death sentence for the deed.

The state scoffs at Mrs. Willis' plea o. self defense to prevent an attack. That the murder was premeditated and arranged in advance will be the prosecution's argument, Keyes said.

Dr. Benjamin Baldwin led Helen Good, daughter of Josiah Good, prominent Marion, Kas., banker, to the altar within twenty-four hours after he had been married to a butterfly of the East St. Louis night life, at a midnight party, investigation of the marital affairs of the Baldwins revealed following the slaying of the physician.

The marriage to the East St. Louis girl took place the night of March 26, 1922. March 27, Baldwin and Helen Good were married at Kansas City, Kas., according to Mrs. Baldwin's attorney, Bruce Mason.

When the couple sped west the following day the physician told his young wife, who had left a St. Louis girl's school to marry him clandestinely against the wishes of her father, the secret of the previous day's marriage. Mrs. Baldwin inexperienced in the ways of the world, and cut off from her family by the clandestine marriage decided to cast her lot with the man who thus had betrayed her. Further disillusionment followed.

Appoximately three months ago, Mrs. Baldwin sought a lawyer to begin annullment proceedings. While documentary proof of the marriage of Dr. Baldwin to the East St. Louis butterfly was being obtained, Baldwin instituted divorce proceedings.

Shortly afterwards a conference was hel dat which it was agreed by .egal stipulation that Mrs. Baldwin's father was to be named custodian of the child, in return for which, Mrs. Baldwin presented the physician the diamond ring which the doctor gave her at the time of their engagement. They continued to live together after his settlement.

Dr. Baldwin was graduated from Creighton university, Omaha, when he was twenty-one. He established a practice at Lincoln, Neb., where he married Fay French. She died six months later. Later he married Roma Romaign. His nomadic nature, causing him to establish a practice in one town after another, brought a divorce from his second wife.

MARION, Kas., April 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Good, parents of Mrs. Benjamin Baldwin, have gone to oLs Angeles to be with their daughter. They said they knew no details of the murder of Dr. Baldwin.

The parents objected to the marriage of their daughter to Dr. Baldwin and the couple eloped while the girl was attending school in Missouri Dr. Baldwin has never been in Marion. Mrs. Baldwin visited her parents here last Christmas. Mr. Good is a banker here and is wealthy.

Police were not notified of the alleged suicide. The tragedy occurred in a vacant room which attendants visited only occasionally.

MISS LUCILLE WHITE

The old style cook book seems doomed to extinction if the experience of Miss Lucille White, of Chicago, is a harbinger of the future. She is shown in the kitchen of her home, copying recipes being broadcast from a wireless station in New York City. If she had sought them in a cook book, she says, she wouldn't have found them, for they are the latest recipes devised.

SCENE OF FATAL KLAN RIOTING AT LILLY, PA., MINING TOWN, AND ONE OF INJURED KLANSMEN

The alrge photograph shows the street and railroad siding at Lilly where klansmen and townsfolk clashed. Two were killed, many were wounded, and twenty-six klansmen were arrested. There had been trouble in Lilly for several weeks before klansmen went to Lilly in a special train and after a parade planted a blazing cross on a hillside overlooking the town. The majority of the residents are Catholics and the anti-klan feeling was intensified by the opposition to the klan of the United Mine Workers of America which has a large membership there. One of the inserts shows the fire hydrant to which a hose was attached by Lilly residents just before the shooting began. In the other is Worthy Davis, one of the injured klansmen.

DENIES STORY OF CECIL KERNS

CINCINNATI, O., April 15.—J. E. Russell, federal prohibition director of Ohio today denied that either Cecil Kerns or the Consolidated Drug company ever received any liquor or alcohol thru withdrawal permits during his administration.

"I don't pay any attention to that gossip."

"They are free to inspect my records," Russell said.

Russell refused to comment on the testimony of Kerns that he had received money for withdrawal permits.

ALIENTIST SAYS THAW IS SANE

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—Don't you consider Thaw's actions toward the rabbits indicative of sexual perversion?" Dickson asked Dr. Mills, alienist here this afternoon in Thaw's fight for release.

"No sir, I do not."

During a lengthy discussion of such matters, Harry Thaw sat imperturbable in the front row of spectators, talking occasionally to friends and not even glancing up when the rabbits were mentioned.

Dr. Mills, who has examined Thaw a score of times, and pronounced him sane on each occasion, was closely cross-examined on the subject of Thaw's having been twice adjudged insane.

"I can only say he has always been Mills said.

"Was he sane or insane when he shot Stanford White?" Dickson asked. At the mention of White whom Thaw shot to death in 1906, a light perspiration stood out on Harry's forehead and he shifted uneasily. The witness said he didn't know Thaw at the time.

Evelyn Nesbit, whose intervention is on behalf of her boy Russell, came to Philadelphia at an early hour arrived in court. The Gump case was dragged into the morning session. Thaw's attack upon the Kansas City boy was described to Dr. Mills by Dickson and the witness said he had ignored it in his finding Thaw sane, because it never had been a matter of court record.

William Gray, representing Miss Nesbit, took up a new tack, bringing out Dr. Mills' connection with Thaw counsel on each occasion that he found Harry sane.

He also pressed the witness to give an opinion about the Gump case, which he described in great detail and whether the facts, if true, would not affect Dr. Mills' opinion as to Thaw's present sanity.

"Not in the least," admitted the witness.

Gray also asked if the fact that Thaw had been adjudicated insane by seven different tribunals would not affect the witness' opinion.

The case of a certain Mrs. Merrill, alleged to have procured young girls for Thaw to beat, was recited to the witness and asked if this would not cause him to reconsider. He said he didn't consider sexual perversion a sign of insanity.

For a time Harry and Evelyn were seated so close to each other that the tension in the court room could almost be felt.

Seven witnesses, clergymen and others who have visited Thaw at the Pennsylvania hospital for nervous and mental diseases during the past seven years of his confinement, were called in rapid succession. All said they believed Thaw sane.

THE OIL OF SUSPICION

World's Work: Oil has made the whole country suspicious of the power of wealth, in irresponsible or corrupt hands, to influence public officials. Out of the resentment and shame the public feels over the discovery of corruption in the government, a higher standard of conduct can be seen evolving. That is some little compensation for the scandal. Men—both those in public office and others—are thinking about it; and by the aggregate of their thoughts are arriving at an approximation of the line between propriety and impropriety. Men inside the government departments are stiffening up their standards about who may approach them and who may not. Men outside the departments, ex-officials and others, who a month ago might have approached former associates still in office, would hesitate today.

It is a difficult field in which to arrive at rigid definitions. Most of it is in the field of propriety, taste, delicacy in the relations of men with other men.

LAURA H. KEAN

OFFICIALS WORKED FOR FOREIGNERS

Had Interest of Alien Shipping at Heart, Rather Than American Marine, Representative Davis Charges.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Many former officials of the emergency fleet corporation worked more in the interest of foreign shipping than in that of an American merchant marine, Representative Davis, democrat, Tennessee, charged today before the house committee investigating the shipping board.

"I want to say that you had a lot of me nin the emergency fleet corporation who not qnly have not had at heart the success of the shipping board operation but men who were more interested in foreign than in American lines," declared Davis.

Commissioner Plumer of the shipping board who was on the stand, testified that the board had requested the resignation of Norman B. Beecher, former special counsel in the legal division of the corporation, on account of his activities in urging elimination of the government fleet.

BOXERS ALL HERE FOR GUARDS' CARD

All contestants who will figure in the fistic show of Company I, national guards, at the city auditorium Tuesday night, were on hand for the weighing ceremonies which took place in the afternoon at the state boxing commissioner's office at the capitol.

The headliners, Battling Strayer and Buddy Chambers, were in the pink, while Larry Coleman, who meets Charley Long, Omaha negro welter, was also in condition. Coleman has beaten some of the best at his weight around the Twin Cities and also on the west coast, according to Promoter Billy Hale. Coleman is a member of the Mike Gibbons' stable.

SMITH'S NAME AMONG FORMALLY PRESENTED

CONVENTION HALL, ALBANY, N. Y., April 15.—The name of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York will be formally presented to the national democratic convention in New York next June as New York's choice for the democratic nomination of president.

A resolution to have Smith's name presented was drawn and presented for adoption at the democratic state designating convention here this afternoon.

As the program of the convention was "cut and dried" the resolution was certain of adoption, meaning that Smith's name will be presented to the national convention as a "favorite son" candidate by the New York delegation.

MORE ACTION AND LESS TALK

Chicago Tribune: In such a long drawn series of accusations, investigations and recriminiations as that which has developed in Washington, with its consequent strain upon the patience, credulity and calm judgment of the people, it is well to summarize the accomplishments. Only by thus fixing the status of the proceedings can we hope to move forward to a logical conclusion.

Up to date several points have been made clear. The most outstanding among them include the convincing evidence that former Secretary of the Interior Fall used his office for political profit. He obtained $100,000 cash from Doheny and $25,000 from Sinclair. It has also been demonstrated beyond a reasonable doubt that the department of justice under Attorney General Daugherty has been badly administered, with an effect of demoralization and an opening of the gates to corruption, while the attorney general himself has admitted speculation in Sinclair oil stock while in office—a serious impropriety.

And the previous administration of the Department of Justice under Mitchell Palmer has been similarly smeared, not by oil but by other things. It has been shown that such questionable conduct of the department goes back even beyond Palmer to Attorney General Gregory. It has been shown that Senator Walsh (democrat, Montana), chief inquisitor, together with Senator Wheeler, one of his chief associates in the investigation, is involved in this earlier unsavory situation through the latter's failure to prosecute war obstructors while United States district attorney in Montana, and the former's successful intercession in his behalf with Attorney General Gregory.

These constitute almost the sum total of the fairly well authenticated charges to date. They are the outcome of weeks of activity. They are worth following to their logical conclusion in order that no man who has been unfaithful to his public trust may remain in office and escape punishment. But in such circumstances the advice of Senator Borah to the senate is worth heeding.

The senator from Idaho calls for results. He points out the various false and misleading trails which have been followed with great uproar and little avail by the investigators, calls for a record of achievement rather than a record of talk on the scandals and malpractices in office and urges the senate to quit its wild goose chasing, organize and pursue its inquiry in a sane and effective fashion, and proceed to the enactment of needed legislation. That is the sanest counsel which has been heard in Washington for weeks.

The Ninth Inning.

It was the last half of the ninth innning. The bases were full. Two men were out. Of course the home team was one run behind and the count stood three balls and two strikes on the batter. Thousands of fans stood breathlessly waiting. Not a voice could be heard in the huge grandstand.

Out on the field the coachers waved hysterical arms and shouted incoherent advice to unheeding base-runners. Infielders gathered in the centre of the diamond and offered quavering encouragement to the pitcher, who was nervously rubbing the ball in his glove.

The umpire glanced at his indicator, dug his spikes into the soil and waited to judge the oncoming pitcher. The hurler stepped to the mound Feverishly the batter smeared dirt on his hands, seized his bludgeon in a strangle grip and waited his fate.

Not a spectator breathed. Slowly the pitcher tied himself into a combination accordion knot and Chinese puzzle. Then he suddenly unwound and shot the ball like a meteor to the plate. The waiting batsman stepped forward to meet it. Then, out over the stands there came a roar that shattered the tomb-like silence and jarred the concrete stands to their very foundations.

The editor of the Downs News puts down, among other things he has always wanted to do, "Paralyze the home town banker by depositing with him a certified check in my own name for $176,000 and not tell him how I got the money." One of ours in earlier days was to have the money to slip around and buy up a controlling interest in the bank and then fire the cashier pronto. Were we able to do that now, we would first ascertain if he would remain at an increased salary under the new management.—E. E. Kelley.

AIR MAIL PILOTS, WHO FLY IN ALL WEATHER, LEARN HOW TO USE TRICKY PARACHUTE

Orders were issued recently that all pilots of the air mail service must learn to use parachutes. Unlike other aviators, they cannot pick and choose their weather and at any time may be forced to land or even leap from their planes to save their lives. This photograph, taken at Mineola, L. I., shows Pilot Whalen helping to adjust a parachute on Pilot Johnson just before they went up to take a lesson in the safe way to jump.

DEMOCRATIC BONUS PLAN

Propose an Outright Cash Service Compensation.

RAISE IT BY BOND ISSUE

Would Require But Billion and Half.

Claim It Will Cost But Half as Much as the G. O. P. Insurance Policy Measure Now Up.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Democrats laid their bonus plan before the senate today proposing an outright cash bonus which they claim will cost only half as much as the republican (insurance policy) bill.

Senator Curtis presented the republican bill from the finance committee thus formally opening the way for action tomorrow.

His bill, which will be given the right of way in the senate under an agreement among republican members of the committee, provides a twenty-year endowment insurance policy instead of actual money.

The democrats then presented their bill which would give $1 for every day of service after the first sixty days and in amounts up to $500.

The money for the democratic bonus would be raised by a treasury bond issue. Experts say only $1,500,000,000 would be necessary for the project. Republicans say theirs will cost $3,680,000,000.

Under the democratic scheme the bonds would bear 5 per cent interest and would be retired within sixty years with redemptions of not more than $25,00,000 yearly.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, who drew the democratic bill believes there are enough votes on the republican side to help put the cash measures over.

Copeland thinks veterans will be more pleased with a cash payment instead of an insurance policy and that the public will be better pleased because only half the sum would be spent for his bill, in comparison with the republican bill.

The tax bill will rest upon the senate calendar until after some bonus bill is passed. Chairman Smoot, who is in charge of the bonus believes it should be disposed of within ten days.

Crippled and Blind Children Found at Bayard Will Be Sent to Hospitals for Care.

Mrs. J. C. Morrow, inspector for the bureau of welfare, has returned from the western part of the state where she investigated several welfare cases and visited seven hospitals where maternity patients are cared for.

Near Sidney Mrs. Morrow found Mrs. Mary Sucha, a woman ninety-three years of age, living in a dug out under distressing conditions. Mrs. Morrow asked the sheriff to bring the woman's son before the county board for neglect of his mother. She obtained a promise from the county board that it would buy new clothing for the aged woman, new bedding and put a floor in the dug out and visit her every two weeks to see that she is getting proper care.

Another woman, named Mrs. Suchy, was found at Sidney to be practically blind. Altho this woman has a similar name to the one living in the dug out she is not related. Mrs. Morrow will have her sent to the state university hospital at Omaha for an operation for cataract.

J. W. McGerr of Lincoln is said to be lowest bidder on grading for Lancaster county projects and the Cochrane Construction company of Lincoln lowest on most of the gravel work.

SAMARITAN LOST HIS PANTS

Chicago Preacher Gave Shelter and Food to Hobies Who Ill Requited His Consideration.

CHICAGO, April 15.—And it came to pass that Rev. Adam C. Thomassen was much embittered, for he acted the Good Samaritan and lost his topcoat and pants as the result thereof.

It was the day before the Sabbath, the parson, told Judge Barasa that two ill-kempt fellows approached him, and with moans and other signs of distress begged him for alms. He took them to his house and gave them food and spiritual comfort.

Well pleased, Rev. Thomassen retired, slept the sweet sleep of an untroubled soul, and awoke to prepare for his sermon before the Christ brotherhood. But lo, his coat and pants were gone. And so were the two men.

Sore in spirit, and in makeshift garments, Rev. Mr. Thomassen preached his sermon, and declaimed against the evil in the world. As if in answer to his prayers, he caught sight of the two miscreants and today Andrew Green and Robert Agness are on the way to the bridewell, where they were ordered incarcerated by Judge Barasa.

WILL ASK BIDS ON REMOVING BUILDING

Old Whittier May Come Down If Cost Is Not Prohibitive—Board Instructs Secretary to Get Estimates.

Dr. B. B. Bailey introduced a resolution at the meeting of the board of education Tuesday morning instructing the secretary to ask for bids on the demolition and removal of the old Whittier building. The matter came up towards the close of the session as an after-matter following the adoption of plans for laying out the Whittier junior high grounds, prepared two years ago by Ernst Herminghaus, and already partly carried out.

The secretary reported that twelve trees had been planted at Whittier by the woman's relief corps in memory of Grand Army veterans who have passed away in recent years.

The board voted to engage an auditor to audit the books for the year, according to the usual custom.

Word came that the eighth grade class at the Prescot school, wished to use the $150 saved by the class for a memento to be left on the grounds, desired the money to go towards sanding the playground, and that two other classes wished to assist in the project. The plan was approved but left to the judgment of the superintendent in its provisions.

The secretary explained the need of repairs on the high school radiators amounting to possibly $2,000. The repair parts will be of cast iron, instead of steel just as has rusted out.

Coal contracts expire June 1 and the secretary was authorized to issue invitations for new bids.

Dr. W. Rowe gave a report on the swimming pool at the high school. His recommendation, which was adopted, was for the custodian to be carefully instructed as to the operation of the filters, ozonators and other equipment and that the care of the pool be assigned to one person. The water is to be tested [illegible] Dr. H. H. Waite's supervision. Dr. Rowe said the pool is being overworked.

VERDICT IS [illegible] FOR FUSIO[illegible]

MR. SUGHROUE CONGRAT[illegible]LATES GOVERNOR BRYAN.

Says Third Party Members Fee[illegible] Their Duty to Support Bryan—Taylor Not Heard From.

Edward Sughroue of Indian[illegible] progressive party candidate for [illegible]ernor, admits in a congratula[illegible] letter to Governor Bryan that [illegible] governor seems to be the choic[illegible] the progressives as their candi[illegible] for governor. He says the only [illegible] issue between them was fusion o[illegible] fusion and in the governor's nom[illegible] tion fusion has won.

Returns have not been comp[illegible] but scattering reports indicate t[illegible] the progressive party vote is v[illegible] small this year, not hardly worth [illegible] politician's time. According to [illegible]ports of W. J. Taylor's plan G[illegible]ernor Bryan is not yet out of t[illegible] woods. Mr. Taylor proposes, it [illegible] alleged, to call a mass meeting o[illegible] progressive party voters to take action toward declaring a vacancy in the nomination of governor, this to be followed by the selection of someone to run for governor on the progressive party ticket and if necessary a suit in court to get the new candidate on the ballot and to get Governor Bryan off the ballot as a progressive party nominee.

Mr. Sughroue's letter to Governor Bryan says:

"From the reports I have received you seem to have been the choice of the progressivse for their candidate for governor. You made a clean and fair contest for this nomination and I must congratulate you upon your success, and as a good progressive bow my head to the will of the majority.

"All progressives should feel it their duty to support you now in the fall elections. There was very little difference in the platform on state issues upon which we stood. The only real issue between us was fusion or no fusion and in your nomination fusion has won. With a progressive jury where all interested had a fair and equal chance."

The skeleton crew aboard the airship finally got it under control and brought it back safely to its hangar.

Cavalry, Artillery and Air Detachments Drilling for Public Demonstration Here May 23.

A reserve officers' committee consisting of Col. C. J. Frankforter, commanding the Lancaster county unit; Maj. Sidney Erickson, professor of military science and tactics, University of Nebraska; Capt. Guy King and Maj. J. Ed C. Fisher of Beatrice, have just returned from Fort Riley, Kas., where they were in conference with the officers who will command the regular army troops to be brought to Lincoln for the big military show Friday, May 23. The Fort Riley officers were very enthusiastic over their having been chosen to bring their organizations to Lincoln.

Captain White, commanding the troops on their march to Lincoln, is a veteran of over two years' active service in France, and a fine type of army officer, according to the committee. He says that Battery A, Ninth Field Artillery, which is chosen to come to Lincoln, is going thru a course of special training for the Lincoln visit.

Troop F, Second Cavalry, is commanded by Captain Palmer. This troop is one of the finest of the army and has given exhibitions on several occasions. Captain Palmer says that they are preparing a very entertaining series of stunts consisting of burning bar hurdling, pole jumping, table jumping, brush hurdling, chicken coop hurdling, fancy cossack riding. They will wind up their act with a brilliant and thrilling sabre charge.

Major Tinker, who will command the air squadron, is preparing a series of special feats that are new and entertaining. The ships to come to Lincoln are a part of the sixteenth observation squadron.

"The enthusiasm with which the troops are preparing for their visit to Lincoln assures us of a most entertaining program," one of the Lincoln officers said. Captain White says the troops themselves are looking forward to their march to Lincoln with a great deal of pleasure.

"The Lincoln chamber of commerce has arranged for the use of the state fair grounds for the show

CONSPIRED TO SELECT NOMINEE

Californian Says Generally Known at Convention.

TEAPOT DOME WAS THE GOAL

"Thrown Into Office," for Benefit of Oil Interests, Ardmore Man Said to Have Asserted to Ballard.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Sensational testimony concerning an alleged conspiracy at the 1920 republican convention to nominate a candidate for president who would consent to leasing of the naval oil reserves featured the session of the senate oil committee which was resumed today after a week's recess.

H. W. Ballard, an oil man of Los Angeles, California, told the committee "it was generally known" at the Chicago convention, "that there was a conspiracy to select a nominee who would lease Teapot Dome."

He also said that the late Jake Hamon of Oklahoma had told him that Albert B. Fall was "bought like a steer and thrown into office," the appointment as secretary of the interior being worth $500,000 to Fall, to be paid $150,000 down in cash and the balance over a period of four years.

Ballard said he believed Harry F. Sinclair was to furnish the money.

R. E. Clopton, Ardmore, Ok., hotel proprietor, testified that he overheard a conversation between Hamon and others at his hotel after Hamon returned fro mthe convention from which he understood that Hamon had paid $165,000 and "put over" the nomination of the late President Harding.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Appointment of Albert B. Fall as secretary of the interior was worth $500,000 to him, the late Jake Hamon told H. W. Ballard, Los Angeles oil man, Ballard testified before the senate oil committee today.

"It was to be paid $150,000 down and the balance over a period of four years," Ballard said.

"Who was to furnish the money?" Ballard was asked.

"The man who got Teapot Dome, Harry F. Sinclair—I suppose," Ballard replied.

Ballard said Hamon told him that the deal was made by "some one" without Mr. Harding knowing it at the last republican national convention.

Ballard told of an investigation he made in 1920 of reports that Teapot Dome would be leased.

Ballard said he had been informed he should go to see Jake Hamon about it.

SYNDICATE CASE GOOD

JUDGE OVERRULES STATE'S SPECIAL APPEARANCE.

Attorney General's Argument That Bryan and Knudson Are Immune to Court Action Is Set Aside Tuesday.

The special appearance entered by Secretary Knudson in his defense in the action by the Investors Syndicate was overruled by District Judge Frost Tuesday morning. By this action the judge holds that he has jurisdiction of the case and the defendants only recourse is a demurrer which will be heard April 24.

In the demurrer which was filed immediately after the ruling the state officers hold that the court has no jurisdiction of the person of the defendant or the subject of the action. They also state that the Syndicate had no legal right to sue, that several causes of action are improperly joined and that the plaintiff's petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

When the special appearance was argued before Judge Frost April 5 it was the contention of the state's attorney that the plainuffs had not the right to sue the governor or Secretary Knudson for their action in discharging discretionary duties of office.

Mr. DeVoe in his answer to the arguments of Lee Bayse for the state said that the state's very appearance in court was an admission that the plaintiff had a right to sue and that it was not the province of Mr. Knudson or the governor to determine whether or not the Syndicate's contract's were fair or unfair.

The action brought by the Investor's Syndicate, a Minneapolis concern, against the two state officers, states that the governor and Mr. Knudson wrongfully refused to grant them a permit to continue business in the state and in so doing jeopardized $5,000,000 worth of contracts held by the syndicate with a large clientele.

REPARATIONS COMMISSION TO BE NOTIFIED.

Herr Schacht Declares He Is Surprised That Dawes Committee Did Not Recommend Absolute Moratorium.

BERLIN, April 15.—Germany's acceptance in principle of the recommendation of the Dawes committee as a basis of settlement of the reparations question will go forward to the reparations commission in Paris probably today or tomorrow, the United Press is informed.

Both the cabinet and the conference of state premiers have agreed to accept the report and the only step left is notification of the reparations commission, which probably will be in teh form of a written document forwarded to Paris.

At the same time a dispatch from Dusseldorf said the Franco-Belgian industrialists had agreed to prolongation of the so-called "micum" agreements for two months and that documents were ready for signature.

PARIS, April 15.—Germany is surprised that the Dawes committee of experts did not recommend her an absolute moratorium, Herr Schacht, German financial expert, is quoted as saying in an interview printed in the Echo De Paris today.

The newspapers Berlin correspondent quotes Schacht, who has represented Germany in various negotiations here, as declaring the Dawes recommendations overestimate Germany's capacity to pay.

Schacht's utterances may be considered as especially important, the correspondent says, because he participates in all the meetings of the German ministerial council.

The party leaders were conferring with the government today on the form in which Germany's acceptance shall ge forward to Paris and it was expected the document would be ready soon.

Meantime it was announced that Minister of Justice Emminger has tendered his resignation to Chancellor Marx owing to inner party differences, presumably not connected with the reparations question. The chancellor, accepted the resignation and probably will assume the portfolio of justice himself for the time being.

The decision of the state premiers to accept the Dawes recommendations was unanimous. Even the nationalistic leaders, von Knilling of Bavaria, and Brandenstein of Mecklinburg accepted the majority opinion without serious argument.

LONDON, April 15.—The British government is entirely satisfied with the Dawes report on German reparations, Prime Minister MacDonald said in the house of commons this afternoon.

Great Britain will support the Dawes recommendations in their entirety, provided other parties concerned adopt a similar course, MacDonald said.

RELATIVES HIS FAILING

Kansas City Man Accused of Taking $600,000 From Bank, Gave Kin Money.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 15.—"Too many relations" was the explanation given by bank examiners today for the downfall of John M. Moore, bank president accused of having defalcated $600,000 from the Fidelity National Bank and Trust company.

Moore's private life was declared to be flawless.

He did not speculate, gamble or patronize the bright lights. He lived modestly.

Seeking an explanation why he took the money and what he did with it, officials could find only one answer—relatives. They were his one weakness.

A stepson had a 10,000 acre ranch at San Angelo, Tex.

When the cattle price slump came in 1921, Moore was reported to have advanced $100,000 to pay its debts. He also met other obligations on the ranch. The Fidelity National bank has now taken over the Texas acreage. Land was held in other states by relations believed to have been acquired thru money obtained from Moore.

Delving into Moore's affairs they found his relatives interested in oil companies and other concerns. Apparently the money to acquire these holdings was advanced by Moore.

Moore was in a state of coma at his apartment today. He has been unconscious since Friday night when he was found unconscious after he had been unable to explain to satisfaction of his directors, discrepancies in his accounts. Physicians denied there was an attempt at suicide and attribute his condition to a disease from which he has long suffered.

L. K. Robert, chief bank examiner, recommended that Moore be prosecuted by federal authorities. "He has clearly violated the law," Roberts said.

Juggling of accounts was first disclosed when an oil company wished to withdraw $630,000 on deposit. Moore personally handled the account.

Only $30,000 of their deposit was reported shown on bank records. To meet the demand two drafts for $300,000 each were issued, drawn on the Guaranty Trust company of New York by Kansas City men supposed to be stopping at the Biltmore. These drafts were questioned by the examiners and a telephone call to New York disclosed the alleged fraud.

The local pastor, Rev. W. T. Taylor was assisted by Evangelist M. B. Carman of Minden, Neb., and Helen Chamberlain, as singer, from Loup City. COLUMBIA UNIVERITY EXTENSION LESSONS

By Benjamin Haggott Beckhart.

BANKING—I. Elementary Concepts.

If any one pursuit may be thought of as the hub of our economic universe, it is banking. Banks constitute the very core of our capitalistic system and profoundly affect the lives of all. A defective banking system, for instance, such as America had before the adoption of the Federal Reserve System, will cause financial panics and disturbances which bring in their wake all manner of distress and suffering. No one may escape from the influence of a banking system and more than one may escape the burden of paying taxes.

At this point it might be well to differentiate between certain words, such as money, credit, banks, &c., which we shall use constantly in these articles and which are quite generally confused.

Money. Economists differ among themselves as to the proper definition of money. By money some mean the standard of value which legally has been the gold coin in America since 1900 (to be exact the gold dollar containing 25.8 grains of gold, 9-10 fine with 1-10 of copper alloy, of which the other gold coins are multiples). This definition we feel is too restricted and we shall define money as that medium of exchange which is universally accepted without reference to the credit or to the character of the person giving it. Thus if you were setting forth to purchase a railroad ticket it would make no difference to the station agent whether you offered gold coin national bank notes or Federal Reserve notes. All would be equally acceptable. No one, however, would accept your check without inquiring very carefully into your credit standing. Consequently checks do not fall within our definition of money. Defined in this manner the types of money in circulation in the United States are:

Money in Circulation in the United States

Type.	Issued by	Security.	Redeemable in	Amount in Actual Circulation as of Dec. 1, 1923 (in millions).
Gold coins.....	U. S. Treasury Dept.	Gold coin and bullion to full amount	—	$400
Gold certificates	"		Gold coin.....	533
Silver dollars	"		Must be maintained at a parity with gold	58
Silver certificates	"	Silver dollars to full amount	Silver dollars..	381
Subsidiary silver..	"		*Lawful money.	258
U. S. notes	(were issued first during Civil War to meet the expenses of the Government)	A fund of approximately $150,000,000 in gold
Treasury notes of 1890	" (were issued in consequence of Sherman Silver Purchase Act of 1890)	Silver dollars to full amount	Gold coin.....	306
National bank notes	National banks	United States Government obligations to full amount plus a 5% redemption fund in gold or lawful money	Gold coin.....	1
Federal Reserve Bank notes	Federal Reserve Banks	"	*Lawful money	734
Federal Reserve notes	Federal Reserve Banks	By a gold reserve of at least 40%, the remainder consisting of paper purchased or discounted by the Reserve Banks. (The gold reserve now is over 75%)	*Lawful money	14
			Gold coin or lawful money	2,237
			Total	$4,922

*Lawful money is money which possesses the legal tender quality, such as gold coins and certificates, silver dollars, United States notes, Treasury notes of 1890, fractional silver coins to $10 and minor coins (nickels and cents) to 25 cents.

From this table it will be observed that over 45% of the money in circulation consists of Federal Reserve notes and that only $400,000,000 of gold coins are in circulation. The great bulk of gold coin and bullion in America (3.8 billions of dollars) is held in the vaults of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks and of the Treasury Department.

Credit Transaction. A monetary transaction is one in which money is directly exchanged for goods. A credit transaction, on the other hand, is an incomplete exchange. A credit transaction is involved when one purchases goods and has his account charged, for the storekeeper has confidence in the willingness and ability of the buyer to pay for his purchases at a future date. The bulk of transactions in America are not monetary but are transactions in which credit instruments such as the open-book account, checks, promissory notes, trade and bankers' acceptanes are used. The amount of bank deposits forms a rough and ready indicator of the importance of credit in the business life of America. On June 30, 1923, the deposits of all banks amounted roughly to $40,000,000,000, or approximately to eight times the amount of money in circulation.

Banks. Banks are credit institutions. Theirs is the function of receiving deposits of money but principally of credit instruments and of extending credit to borrowers. Thus if you were to apply to your bank for a loan of $10,000, this would in all probability be credited to your deposit account, against which you would be privileged to draw checks. Thus banks do not commonly loan actual money but rather extend credit.

CONSTANTINE SMYTH DIES

Former Nebraska Attorney General Passes Away at Rochester, After an Operation.

ROCHESTER, Minn., April 15.—Constantine J. Smyth, sixty-five, [illegible] justice of the United States [illegible] court of appeals of the District of Columbia, died here last night following an operation for cancer. Before going to Washington in 1907, Smyth was a well known Omaha lawyer, and had served two terms as attorney general of Nebraska. The body will be taken to Omaha for burial.

With Judge Smyth at his bedside were Mrs. Smyth and their two daughters, Mrs. Charles Burgess and Mrs. Clarence Sibbernsen of Omaha. He is survived also by three sons, Gerard of Washington, D. C.; Edward, employed by the shipping board of New York, and Constantine J., jr., with the United Fruit corporation in New York.

Judge Smyth was born in County Cavan, Ireland, December 3, 1859. He emigrated to America in 1870. He had ambitions to enter West Point but missed the appointment and came west from New York at the age of seventeen.

With one lone cent for his capital, he arrived in Omaha and went to work in the auditor's office of the Union Pacific railway. He studied law at night and was admitted to the bar in 1885.

He became attorney general of Nebraska and later special assistant to the attorney general of the United States.

One case he prosecuted resulted in separation of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company.

He was sent to the legislature in 1887, was chairman of the democratic state central committee in 1894 and chairman of the Nebraska delegation to the 1896 democratic national convention when William Jennings Bryan was first nominated for president.

The funeral services will probably be held Thursday at St. Cecilia's cathedral.

NEGROES ADMIT ROBBERY.

OMAHA, April 15.—John Betkie, Walter Beisursen and Elmer Bodell, on their way from Fremont to Omaha in a truck, were held up by three men in a touring car one mile north of the peony farm at 1 a. m. today, and robbed of $56 in cash.

The bandits turned about and headed for Omaha. Their victims hailed them, got their car number and turned it over to police. A little later Lincoln Nash, Philip Christian and William Newton, negroes, were under arrest and confessed to the robbery, according to police.

JAP TURMOIL OVER ACTION

PEOPLE AND OFFICIALS DISTURBED AT U. S. MOVE.

Foreign Office Doesn't Know What Action to Take—Many Prominent Japanese Condemn Their Government.

TOKIO, Japan, April 15.—Japanese opinion and Japanese officialdom today seemed in a turmoil over the action of the American house of representatives in passing the Japanese exclusion measure.

While such strong papers as the Tokio Nichi Nichi were declaring that "Japan's honor has been mercilessly destroyed," the foreign office was plainly disturbed and apparently undetermined as to what should be done and many prominent Japanese were privately condemning their government's conduct altho refusing to be quoted.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: I read with interest the letter by A Business Man. At first I was surprised, then upon more thoughtful consideration I feel sorry for him. For a time I sort of resented the inference that his was the life of a typical business man or it was the life to live or aspire to.

Somehow I feel that he has not yet come into his full measure of manhood or yet known life at its best.

As a business man and human being I have known the slow struggle from poverty up thru many trying times and reverses up to our present prosperity and sufficiency. It has been slow hard and often discourageing but Mary the game of life is worth it.

Many a time after a hard day when I return home and meet the smiling expectant faces of the "kiddies" and the wife I feel I could gladly work and strive for them more and harder than I have ever done in the past. Somehow I feel that every ounce of honest effort and honorable living and earnest preparation before as well as after our marriage is well repaid when I look into their eyes.

Do I need a Jazz Baby to "rest a tired business man." By no means. The very thought is repellent. As for stepping out with other women occasionally I don't want too. The company of the wife is too alluring.

And after ten years and more of married life I have no fear of "growing tired of her."

And the "Misses" says when she dropped her business life and undertook to share a home with me it was the "career" of her life.

She says she is happy, very happy. She don't want a car, she says, "I'll not have it, Let's go together."

We have felt the hand of death on some near and dear. It has brot us closer together. In business I like to study my associates. There are many true noble men and sometimes the obvious shortcomings and disappointing experiences simply teach a greater appreciation of the virtues of our fellow men.—Another Business Man.

A. Glad to have one business man answer another. The readers can take their own choice as to which is the more representative.

Sorry I had to edit the last part of your letter. It would only start a needless religious controversy.

Dear Mary: I would like very much to try my luck at writing words to music. I like to write poetry and its is quite easy for me. Would you please print the address of some firm that writes music but not the words for popular or other music. I hope you will print this as soon as possible as I am very anxious to start work at it.—One Who Loves Music.

A. I don't believe there is any such firm. Popular songs are written by friends of those who write the music or by men and women hired especially for that purpose. If you can write verse, you might try submitting it to the magazines.

Lonesome Farm Girl: Will you send me your name and address? I have an inquiry for you.

Dear Mary Gordon: Our Sunday School class have been studying the book of Exodus. I find there is no definite information to be had as to whether Pharaoh was destroyed with his host while crossing the sea. I am never satisfied with supposition if I can get facts so am coming to you. Please answer through your column.—Mrs. P. H. D.

A. It is understood that Pharaoh perished with his men, since he was at their head. We have no indication that he deserted his forces as they followed the Israelites. The bible says, "There remained not so much as one of them."

Dear Mary Gordon: As I am not writting the first time to our dear family of the Journal which I enjoy ever so much, and so many others do to.

I am in love with a young man I think the world of him and in return he is the same way toward me. But this young man is going to move out of the city and it just breaks my heart. Mary, he is just a perfect gentleman would it be right to persuade him not to leave me. I thought there wasn't anything as a good man left as same of your readers write we have certainly plenty of young men that are wonderful.—A Faded Rose At Sunset.

P. S. Let us hear from some more of the country maidens and young men. They are wonderful people. I am personally a city person. But think the farmers fine people.

A. If the young man will better himself by going elsewhere, it would be rather selfish to persuade him to stay, wouldn't it? On the other hand, if you are engaged to him and fear he would not be very constant if out of your vicinity, it might be well for your own peace of mind to keep him here. After all, it is something which you yourself must decide.

My Neighbor Says:

To clean windows and mirrors, rub them with thin cold starch, let it dry and then wipe off with a soft cloth. This will clean as well as give a brilliant polish.

Japanned trays can be cleaned with a mixture of vinegar and powdered whiting. Apply with a soft flannel, wipe off with a clean cloth and polish with chamois.

To prevent a roast from becoming fat soaked, set it upon a rack in the roasting pan. But keep the surface of the pan covered with fat to prevent it from burning. For this purpose it is better to use fat than water.

TELLS SENSATIONAL STORY

Paroled Federal Prisoner Declared Withdrawal Permits Obtained by Wholesale.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—A sensational story of a gigantic liquor withdrawal plot alleged to have been engineered by Ohio politicians at Washington was related before the senate Daugherty investigating committee today by Cecil H. Kerns, of Columbus, a paroled federal prisoner.

Kerns named Howard Mannington, once resident of the "little green house on K street," Ralph Cole, former member of congress and Abe Ungerleider, Columbus broker and William Halcy as the men who furnished the political influence to obtain withdrawal permits.

Abe Ungerdeider told him, Kern said, that he had contributed $50,000 to the republican campaign fund and that he had an understanding that if he gave this sum, "he could get all the liquor permits he wanted or get his money back."

Kerns said the alleged liquor deal was first broached to him by H. S. Adair, president of the Consolidated Drug company of Columbus, O., Adair was interested with William Halley, hes aid.

"It has been brought out here that Jesse Smith was sending telegrams to Halley," Senator Wheeler interjected.

"I was referred to Abe Ungerleider about obtaining liquor permits," continued Kerns.

Ungerleider told him, Kerns said, that he contributed $50,000 to the republican campaign fund.

"He said that he had an understanding that if he contributed $50,000 he could get all the liquor permits he wanted or get his money back," said Kerns.

Kerns said that 13,000 cases of liquor had been taken from warehouses in Ohio with the approval of Prohibition Director Russell of Ohio.

"I was told that Russell was 'bought and paid for,'" he said.

Kerns said he employed John B. Todd, former law partner of Harry M. Daugherty in 1921 because he had influence with the attorney general. He paid Todd $500 a month during his employment. Todd, he said, went to the department of justice and "saw certain high officials" to get information he wanted.

The witness said that he was convicted of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and sentenced to two years in Atlanta penitentiary. After serving a year and three weeks, he was released on a parole in February 1924, signed by Daugherty and H. H. Votaw, superintendent of federal prisons.

"Ungerleider told me that he was in a position to get liquor out of bond, and that he had power and influence at Washington," the witness continued. The liquor, Kerns said, was to handled thru the Aramanda Candy and Drug company of Cleveland.

Kerns said he sold Ungerleider 500 barrels of liquor which be had in bond. The payment for the liquor was handled thru a man named Grossburg who was later indicted, but escaped to Canada.

"The liquor was to be made available for the bootleg traders in Ohio." Kerns said.

The permits for the liquor, he said were sold to Ungerleider for $1.50 a gallon.

William Barnett of the Consolidated Drug company, informed him, Kerns said, that he could get liquor out of bond. The permits were to cost $17 a case, he said. Howard Mannington and Ralph Cole were named by Barnett as his "associates" in the liquor deal, Kerns said.

TAYLOR TELLS HEBRON CLUB WHAT IS NEEDED.

Says Chance Should Be Given to Work Way Out Under Present Law Without Added Legislation.

HEBRON, Neb., April 15.—W. E. Taylor, commercial agent of the Rock Island railroad at Lincoln, talked to the Hebron chamber of commerce today noon on the railroad question. He pleaded that the railroads be given a chance to work their way out to better conditions, not alone for themselves but for the people they servie, without more restrictive and irritating legislation. Among other things he said:

"There is a well defined purpose on the part of a certain radical element in congress today to force these railroads into politics, or at least to embroil them in politics by repealing existing laws, for apparently no other purpose than to serve their own political interests, or to use the railroads for material out of which to make political capital, and I wonder at the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations in this country standing silently by and permitting them to accomplish their purpose.

"Your railroads are operating under what is known as the Esch-Cummins bill, a law which does not guarantee the railroads a penny, but on the other hand restricts their earnings to five and three-fourth percent (5 1-2 porecent), so that the most that a railroad company can do is to earn the five and three-fourths per cent (5 3-4 per cent), if they can, and improve the physical condition of the property; a condition which every sane business man must agree is fair to the government, the people, and reasonably fair to the railroads. In order for the railroads to improve their physical condition to any great extent they must have some normal years thru which to work in order to ascertain what they can do; a condition which has not existed since the inception of this law.

"Immediately following enactment of this law, it was necessary to unscramble the railroad systems. The coal strike paralyzed business all over this country and the net earnings of the railroads was disappointing. The shopmen's strike, which had to be fought to a finish, because to have surrendered would have necessitated higher freight rates; so that the fight was made and won at a horrible cost, not to the shippers of this country or the general public, but to the railroads themselves or to bemore specific, gentlemen, the railroads in this country sacrificed approximately two years of their profits for the sake of a principle, the winning of which was to mean so much to the general public, because it made it possible to maintain the present level of freight rates as well as to have made it possible for other industries to employ labor at a more reasonable cost; and I would go farther and say that it was a master stroke on the part of the railroads in bringing about more stable conditions in the labor situation in this country following the world war.

"Your railroads are being supervised almost beyond reason and they would like to be left alone long enough to ascertain what they can do under existing laws and under normal conditions."

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

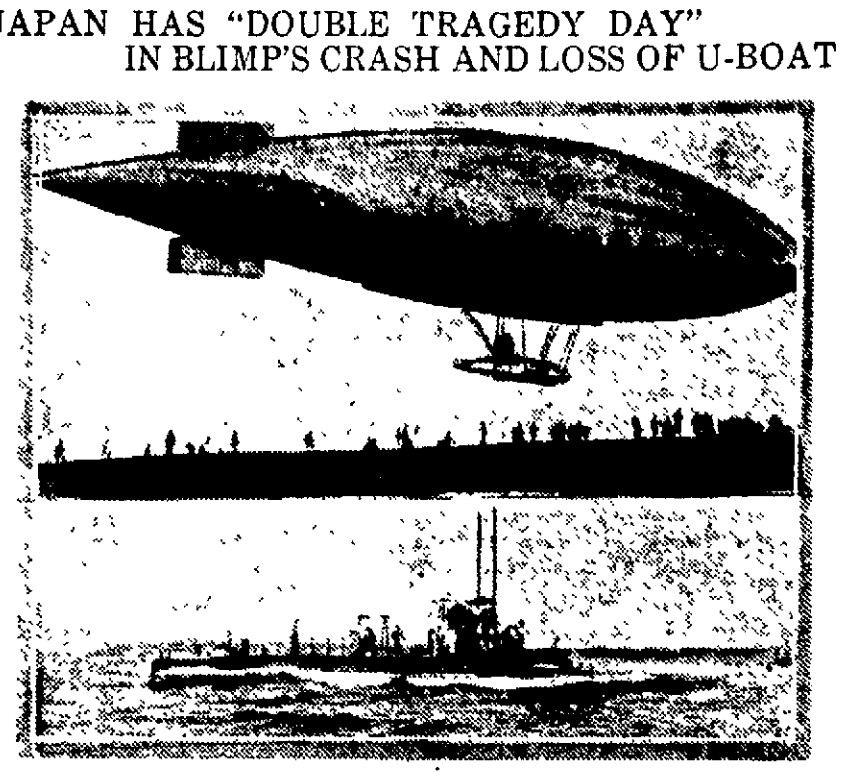

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

MR. CONE STILL IN GAME

Expects to Talk in the Political Campaign on Single Standard of Civic Ethics.

Trenmor Cone, one of the democratic candidates who went down to defeat in the senatorial primary race, was at the capitol Tuesday.

"I will make a speaking tour thru the state during the company campaign of the next sen months," said Mr. Cone. "I intend to talk on the question of a single standard of civic ethics."

When asked if he intends to support Jake Thomas, the democratic nominee, or Senator Norris, republican candidate for senator, Mr. Cone made no reply.

"I sincerely thank the voters for their kind consideration of men and my kind of politics," said Mr. Cone, "With the spirit of my own Nebraska I accept the cards dealt me and will continue to play the game in behalf of the common folks, the wealth producing and working bees in the hive of progress."

BELATED HONOR TO MORRIS.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—After ten years and nine months of designing and casting, a statue of Robert Morris, financier of the revolution, made of enduring bronze, is soon to survey Philadelphia from the steps of the old customs house on Chestnut street. All that remains to be done is for the Robert Morris monument commission to arrange for the erection of the statue.

The first session of the conference called to settle the outstanding questions between Great Britain and soviet Russia is being held at the foreign office with Premier Ramsay MacDonald presiding.

Raided!

IN her dreams Gina re-lives that dreadful episode over and over again and awakens with a scream of mortal terror;—the evil face of Moy Tao leering through opium fumes—the thunder of axes against iron-studded doors—the arrest—the staring, jeering crowd—

And later, the taxi ride in the cold grey dawn—the sip of brandy to help quiet her nerves—oblivion—and the terrible, terrible awakening.

"Poppies on Beacon Hill" in True Story Magazine for May is the story of an unsophisticated girl. She was not bad, not even weak—just ignorant of life. What happened to her might as easily happen to any boy or girl sent out into the world unprepared to cope with life. She eagerly sought a taste of life and like so many others, drank too deep.

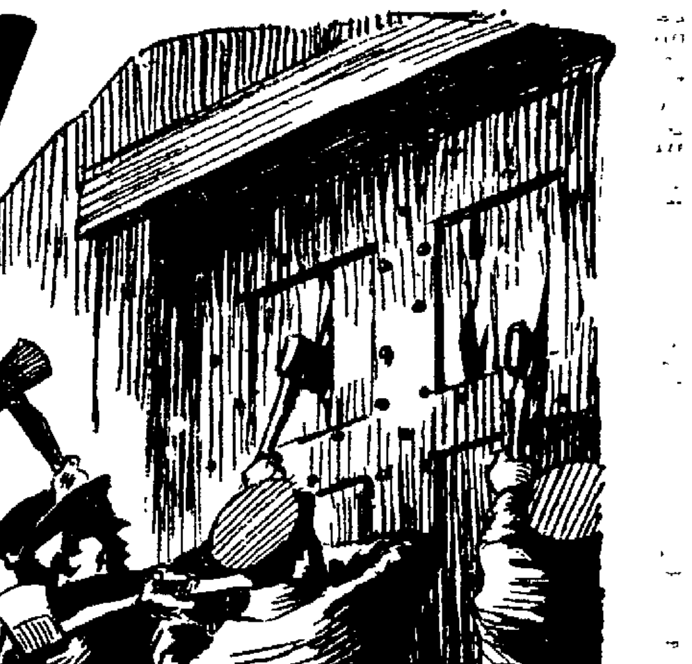

She paid as thousands of others pay.

* * * * *

Until five years ago there was nowhere one could safely turn to get a knowledge of the rules of life. Experience was the only teacher.

Then came True Story, a magazine that is different from any other published. It treats life's problems fearlessly, honestly and in a manner that can give offense to none—

Already it has saved from wreck and ruin the lives of thousands who theretofore had walked in darkness.

"I nearly fainted from fright. The police! Arrested in this place—I would be ruined"

Other Thrilling Stories from Life
Just a Few of the Features in the May True Story Magazine

"The Broken Wedding Ring." Had Joan been willing to put herself out a little to please her husband, Helena Dail would never have received Bruce's phone message asking if he might call that night. If every young man and woman could read this story many a marriage that would otherwise end unhappily would be a glorious success.

"Can a Woman Come Back?" This girl mistook infatuation for love and married a man whom she scarcely knew. If she could have foreseen the dreadful and degrading fate that was in store for her, rather would she have taken her own life than pronounce the words that were to tie her to the beast she married. A lesson of caution to everyone who reads it.

"The Easiest Way." In these days thousands of young men and women consider it quite the proper thing to take a drink. The girl in this story took her first drink to be a good fellow. Later she liked the exhilaration it gave. Then she craved it desperately and in order to procure whiskey . . . But read and decide for yourself if whiskey pays.

"The Fiery Furnace." They loved each other, but she cast herself into a fiery furnace rather than blight his life by marrying him. Could there be an episode in any woman's past so terrible as to warrant such an act? Read this story and see how dreadful the results that follow in the train of ignorance can be.

What a Teacher Thinks of True Story Magazine
I saw my first copy of "TRUE STORY" less than one year ago. I read it. Should I as a teacher read such stories and allow my teachers to read them? One evening I began a hunt for my story book. I located it spread open on the bed of a twenty year old girl next door. I was angry but I think every chum she had in town has since read the copy and have been regular readers ever since.
Yes, the stories grip, coming from torn hearts they find ready response in other hearts.
There is nothing in the copy before me as risque as the average daily paper broadcasts.
I can't help think that it has a place in the home.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

NO MORE PAVING ON EIGHTH STREET NOW

City Hasn't the Money for Improvement Requested — Water Main Contract Awarded and Gas Bought.

Property owners on Eighth street between E and F will not have their street paved this year, tho in their petition, presented to the city council Monday by Ralph Moseley, they expressed readiness to do their share. They asked to have the paving district comprising E street from Eighth to Tenth, enlarged to take in their block. Their lots run east and west, facing the F street park, and the E street paving will be, for them, practically a side street affair. Councilmen were sympathetic but could not see where the money was coming from.

A paving district created at the last meeting was done away with Monday when it developed that the council had been misled into thinking property owners on K street wanted it paved between Seventh and Eighth. Acting on a petition of protest signed by said property owners, viz., George H. Rogers and the International Harvester company, the council repealed the ordinance.

Contracts for the water mains on Idylwild drive were awarded J. L. Deffenbaugh, whose bid was $4,660. The Knudson Construction company had bid $4,690.

Purchase of 10,000 gallons of gasoline from the Standard Oil company was authorized, at a price of 10 3-4 cents at Casper or 13.13 cents f. o. b. Lincoln.

The city engineer presented estimates of cost on two items for the Lincoln General hospital, including the Emily J. Moore annex. These were $9,000 for passenger elevators and $5,500 for mechanical refrigerators.

Canvass of the vote of the Traction company's amendment showed that the proposition failed to carry, the vote being almost two to one against it. Of 7,735 votes cast, there were 5,066 against. The amendment was favored in two precincts, however, the vote in 6B-2 being 11 for and 71 against, and in 9C-2 the same number for and 11 against.

These paving districts were created:

No. 552—Saratoga avenue, Eleventh to Thirteenth.
No. 590—Orchard street, Thirty-eighth to Fortieth; Hazelhurst to Apple; Thirty-eighth, Dudley to Apple; Fortieth, Dudley to Orchard.
No. 591—Apple street, Thirty-third to Thirty-eighth.
No. 592—Twelfth, C to Plum.
No. 593—Thirty-first, R to T.

Amusements

Concert by May Peterson.

The thirtieth year of the Matinee Musicale came to a close Monday afternoon with one of the loveliest song recitals ever heard in Lincoln. Miss May Peterson charmed with the perfect music of her tones, her delightful stage presence, and the beauty and novelty of her songs. With but two or three exceptions her songs were all new to Lincoln. Altho an operatic singer, having sung leading roles both at the Opera Comique in Paris and at the Metropolitan, Miss Peterson introduced but one selection from opera, that from "The Dead City" by Korngold, thereby satisfying the artistic sensibilities of those who would dig a gulf between the operatic and concert stage. The Korngold selection was one of the loveliest numbers presented.

With opera practically eliminated, there was no lack of variety. The almost celestial purity and sweetness of Miss Peterson's tones, the smoothness and delicacy of her modulations, her flexibility and vivacity, made everything she sang a joy. It is rare for a soprano of the coloratura type to have such beauty of tone in the lower and middle register. She sang in French, Swedish, German and English, and always with marvellous clearness of enunciation.

The songs in foreign togues, and some of the others were introduced with brief explanatory words and Miss Peterson's speaking voice proved as musical as that for song. She was rapturously recalled after every number. The extra songs were "Soft, Softly, Snow," by Lee; "Indian Lullaby" by Lieurance; "Mr. Robin" by Katherine Glen; Grant Schaefer's "Cuckoo Clock"; the Negro Spiritual, "Little David, Play on Your Harp"; a couple of repetitions, and "In the Time of Roses" by Louise Reichardt, the last being played to her own accompaniment at the close of the program. The songs repeated were Parley's "Night Wind" and "Le coeur de ma vie by Dalcroze. In the "Night Wind" Miss Peterson imitated the ghastly wail with astonishing fidelity.

The pianist, Frederic Schauwerke, was awarded a share of the honors for his beautiful accompanists. The singer brought him forward to accept some of the applause after a number where the piano part had special prominence. The program was as follows:

Aria—Patron, Patron, Voila Peffet du vent, from "Phoebus et Pan", Bach; Beneath the Weeping Willow Shade, Hopkinson, Skogen sover, Alfven, Kom Kjyra, Grieg.
Aria—Marietta's Lied, from "Die Tote Stadt", Korngold; Hans und Grete, Mahler, Memory, Ganz, At the Well, Hageman.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, W. Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells, and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true."—Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. No. 1, Box 36, Mannington, West Virginia.

How To Keep A Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. J. Russell of 19,141 Havana Ave., Detroit, Mich., keeps her family of two young children in perfect health with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. R. L. Smith of 519 Maple Ave., East Pittsburg, Pa., says her family of three children have never been sick a day since giving them Syrup Pepsin.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

You Can Have A Trial Bottle

Stephens of Ringgold, Ia., and special deputy Sheriff Ed Kavanaugh.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT FREMONT

Woman and Two Children Pinned Under Car.

FREMONT, April 15.—One arrest, three injured, three damaged cars and several narrow escapes made up the week end record in this vicinity for motorists.

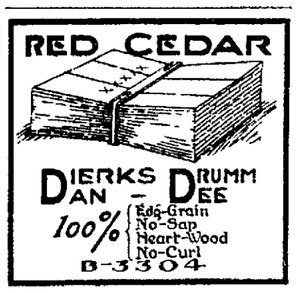

Mrs. Gus Vogenrief and two children, of Arlington, were painfully bruised and injured when their car, driven by Mr. Vogenrief, struck a bank near Arlington and upset. Mrs. Vogenrief and the two children were pinned beneath the car. The arrival of help prevented serious results.

Three high school lads, George Turner, George Whitfield and William Dolezall, all of Fremont, were pinned beneath a touring car after the machine toppled over a small bridge, east of Fremont. The lights of the car refused to operate and in traversing the bridge, the auto struck the railing and went over. There was but little water in the creek below and the soft mud saved the occupants from serious injury. They managed to extricate themselves and made their way to Fremont with passers-by.

Lloyd Owens, of Memphis, Neb., was arrested for speeding Sunday night following an auto crash with a car owned by Ralph Ehlers, Fremont. The accident occured at a street crossing and both cars were considerably damaged by the impact. Occupants of the Ehlers car were badly shaken up but no serious injuries resulted.

WORLD'S FINEST FLYING FIELD

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—Philadelphia now has the finest two service flying field in the world. It is in the Philadelphia navy yard and it has been brought to a completion without exploitation of any kind. Cooperation of the United States army engineers with those of the aviation section of the United States navy has done the job. One hundred and thirty five acres of land have been leveled and planes swooping down upon it from any angle are assured of a good landing place. Bordering it are the hangars, and close by are the slides into the Delaware, where seaplanes find the maximum of safety.

Whispers behind fans . . overtones echoed by fragile teacups . . blandishments in words and beguilements in glances . . . uniforms; Paris gowns an furbelows; the ribbons of foreign orders making a swathe across shirt fronts. All this went into "The Boudoir Mirrors of Washington." But, dear lady, do you think that those are a monopoly of Washington?

Did you chuckle at what "Little Borah"—Mrs. Borah—said when she first dined at the White House, as it was told in the Washington Mirrors? Did you gasp at the picture of Alice Longworth standing on her head for the benefit of the gouty dowager?—You will chuckle again many a time as you read this new serial, Boudoir Mirrors of America.

Vanities, foibles, crotchets, ambitions; the pulling of wires—these things, with laughter in the distance, make up the human comedy revealed in this new series of articles, Boudoir Mirrors of America. The art and charm and the keen basic kindliness of the first series are carried to new levels in the second, which take all North America for a field.

A society woman—you know her name and features—went hunting kings on a tourist liner and . . . . But did she find them?

A famous woman poet addresses a meeting of women, by special invitation, and when she tells them flatly they are egomaniacs, who then has the last word? Or was there a last word?

A group of society butterflies crowd in honor around their hostess, ardent opponent of the slaughter of animals for furs—and what does she say (you know her, too) when she sees that every woman of the group is wrapped in furs till one can see nothing else?

One of the most honored women lawyers of the country is guest at a dinner and . . . . "Ah!" sighs the Boudoir Mirror; "are there always cat-claws? Why did her introducer have to remind us that once this lawyer was a cash girl?"

A beauty whom you could not help recognizing from her pictures plays hostess at a tea, and all her women guests are made to look as green as mouldy cheese because she has fixed the lights so that . . . . But perhaps the author of Boudoir Mirrors of America speaks too fervently. You see, she was there herself.

Wit and beauty and jests and finesse, all that you can imagine of the world one likes to read about, make Boudoir Mirrors of America a moving picture of life today in those circles where few are called and fewer chosen. It's a magic carpet. It's a whole Arabian Nights all in one.

PACIFISM IS ITS TROUBLE

METHODIST CHURCH OF CHICAGO DEBATING QUESTION.

Bishop Nicholson Says Peace If Possible, Muscular Christianity When Need Arises, His Slogan.

CHICAGO, April 15.—The question of pacifism again is engrossing the Methodist Episcopal church of Chicago, with Bishop Thomas Nicholson of the Chicago diocese openly opposed to the doctrine of "peace at any price."

In a statement made public today in his behalf, Bishop Nicholson's stand is given as:

"Peace if possible, but muscular Christianity when the need arises."

After pointing to the bishop's active war record, the statement declared:

"If unavoidable great humanitarian conflict was on, or if a great crime against civilization and humanity was committed, he should be for war as certainly as he would not be content to simply offer prayers if some villain attacked his wife. He would think it a case for muscular Christianity."

If the Christian church enters into the fight against war with the right spirit, the right teaching and the right influence, ti is only a matter of time before its efforts would be crowned with success, the bishop thinks.

"As for the attitude of the Methodist Episcopal church, the bishop said no man had a right to speak for that body but all the precedents of the past showed that the Methodist church had been unalterably loyal" the statement pointed out.

The bishop's stand was outlined on the heels of a sharp clash at a meeting of Methodist ministers on the question of pacifism.

Rev. A. L. Heist, field secretary of the Methodist social service federation, defended the stand of thirty-eight theological students at Northwestern University who several weeks ago signed pledges to stay out of war at any cost. Heist declared the hue and cry that followed their action simply indicated a "strong war spirit."

Several sharp exchanges occurred. Several ministers supported Rev. Mr. Heist's plea for denunciation of "my country, right or wrong" if public opinion cannot be directed against war.

Other ministers said they would join heartily in "damning war" but were ready to fight if necessary.

BAD FOR DAIRY BUSINESS

Shumway Sees Little But Discouragement for Farmers.

"The decline in the price of butter during the last week is throwing a wet blanket on the enthusiasm of frmers engaging in dairy businses," said Secretary Shumway of the department of agriculture. A 10 per cent reduction in one week on a limited commodity of the farm is discouraging to any enlargement of that particular branch.

"A number of combinations have entered into this decline and, as usual, it is discovered that protection does not protect agriculture. Official reports from the United States department of agriculture indicate the "nervousness" is caused by importation of foreign supplies.

"Two hundred casks from Holland, 6,700 boxes from Argentina, 500 of which were reshipped from England, 13,937 boxes from New Zealand, three casks expected from Denmark, April 15. In the face of this influx from foreign markets, and declining prices of dairy products, there will be a slowing up of buying dairy cows."

THE LOVE THAT LASTS

BY FAY STEVENSON

Tea Table Talk.

At first it seemed like a dream to Elaine—the fact that she and Ben Tarbel were sitting opposite each other in a tiny secluded tea shop with pink roses on the table and that old love light in Ben's sparkling brown eyes.

"He's free!" her heart kept beating to an original little tune of her own. "Free, and he still loves me!"

Not that Elaine admired Ben with that old girlhood enthusiasm. Billy Barrington was the man she loved now. But just for the moment the flowers, Ben's eyes and the secludedness of that little table made her heart race.

"You know I'm rich, Elaine, tremendously well to do," said Ben in his low, well modulated voice.

"But don't you miss her, isn't there a great void in your life?" asked Elaine, referring to the wife who had just died the week before.

Ben lighted a cigaret.

"You know it never was the sort of love we knew!" he frankly exclaimed. "Jove, Elaine, can't you get a divorce?"

The tiny bit of cinnamon toast which Elaine had just taken slid down her throat. She took a sip of tea, but her hand trembled so she could hardly steady her cup. Had she given the impression that she did not care for Billy Barrington? Was Ben Tarbel justified in daring to ask her to give up her husband and marry him?

"Why, Ben, I love Billy!" she finally managed to say.

"Pooh! second love," laughed Ben "Do you know neither of us can find happiness unless we marry each other? First love is the thing that counts, Elaine. I love you and I always will. Perhaps I made a fool of myself marrying a rich girl, perhaps people will think I don't deserve you, but fate has turned the tables. The girl died and I have her fortune. Billy has made a financial ass of himself. He's proved he can't support you. The future is before us. Aren't you going to take what the gods lay at your feet, Elaine?"

"Billy needs me more than ever. Because a man is out of work is the very reason his wife should stand by him and see him thru. Ben, I am disappointed in you! A man who can talk that way about his wife is beyond my comprehension. First love? Oh, it's an infatuation, a first fluttering of the heart. The love I bear for Billy is a different love—it is the love that lasts—a love that will go with him to the bitter end."

Elaine arose from the table and started toward the door. Ben followed in her train. They emerged from the tea shop just in time to face a flushed and angry Billy Barrington.

WALT MASON

The Collapse.

Perk Perkins walked with stately stride about our little town; we always spoke with honest pride of him and his renown. When he returned, at divers times, from circles high and grand, the churches all rang out their chimes, we met him with a band. Triumphal arches spanned the street, flags hung o'er every door, and damsels, garlanded and sweet sang, "Home Again Once More!" To welcome him in noble style we used to plot and plan; and this was surely worth the while of my mortal man. But all this love and high esteem were not enough for Perk; he had a dark and hateful dream of grafts he well might work. He worked his grafts and gathered chink, a huge, dishonest pile; and he would give it all, I think, to see his neighbors smile. The other day marked his return to Punktown-in-the-Glen; he saw no ruddy beacons burn, no maids sang "Home Again." A clammy silence held the town, as cold as winter sleet, when quaking Perkins journeyed down the old familiar street. Men watched in sorrow as he trod the highways's turn and bends, the man who traded for a wad the faith and love of friends. He shivered as he met the gaze of neighbors he had known in those old glad triumphant days when honor held its throne.

COOL TOWARD COLONIZING.

OSAKA, Japan, (By mail.)—The report of the establishment of a new large concern for sending Japanese emigrants to South America is somewhat premature. It is true that the plan is being contemplated and the promoters recently held several meetings, but the company is not yet established. The plan has long been contemplated as the best measure to relieve the congestion of a fast-swlling population and thereby to save the growing scarcity of food supply in Japan. A business commission went to South America in the summer of 1922 for observation of the conditions there, and after their return home organized a South American business enterprise association with a view to making investments in industrial undertakings in Brazil and other South American countries.

They combated film on teeth —they whose teeth you envy

When you see teeth that glisten, it shows how people are combating film.

Millions now use a new way of teeth cleaning. The prettier teeth you see everywhere now show you one effect. Learn by this test how much that method means to you and yours.

Film dims and ruins teeth

Film is that viscous coat you feel. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so much of it clings and stays.

Soon the film discolors, then forms dingy coats. Most teeth are clouded more or less by film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Those troubles were fast increasing under old ways of teeth cleaning. So dental science has sought for film combatants, and two have been found. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Many careful tests have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

The use has now spread the world over, largely by dental advice. Careful people of some 50 nations are using Pepsodent today.

Results are quick and apparent

Pepsodent does other things almost equally important. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

These combined effects bring a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will always be glad that you made this test, and will never forget the results. Cut out coupon now.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

Brief Stories of the Men and Women Who Led the Way

By MARK STUYVESANT

TO the man—or was it a woman?—who first struck rock on rock and caught the spark to nurse it into heavenly flame to light and cheer and warm the night, and later on to cook his food, we owe a boundless debt. To that genius who cut a segment from a log and made a wheel to roll home the game too heavy for one to carry, we owe the first stirrings of the art of transportation. These "firsts" are lost in the dim distance of man's dark ages.

But there are fascinating facts of life and living—of character and of the joys of living—commonplace necessities of today that yesterday were amazing miracles—which all of us should know. They are the questions some of us often ask ourselves and are puzzled for an answer.

Who first beheld the place in which we live?

Who first did this great thing we all now so thoroughly enjoy?

Who first invented this or that which everyone of us now so happily employs?

Who first thrilled to see or do what many so placidly accept as every day happening?

It is these fascinating questions that this little series strives to answer. If there is something you wish to know write me in care of this paper and I shall endeavor to find out about it for you and write of it and of the man or woman who first saw or did it, so that we all may find interest and perhaps pleasure in the answer.

The First American Baby.

THE first child of Anglo-Saxon parents to be born on American soil, was Virginia Dare. She was the granddaughter of John White, governor of the colony of Roanoke, and daughter of a man who bore the curious name of Ananias Dare. She was born on August 18, 1587, and was declared by her admiring grandfather to be a little beauty.

Not long after Virginia and the entire colony vanished off the face of the earth. There was no massacre by Indians as far as is known. They just disappeared, one hundred and fifty people, and no trace has ever been found of them.

The Baby Was Named Virginia Dare.

The colony of Roanoke Island was established by Sir Walter Raleigh, who had been granted by Queen Elizabeth authority to plant English colonies in the New Country, which Raleigh had named Virginia after "The Virgin Queen," as Elizabeth was termed, because of her refusal to accept a husband.

After one or two preliminary visits John White firmly planted upon Roanoke Island what was intended to be a powerful colony. He had been appointed governor of the colony by Sir Walter Raleigh.

The Governor's daughter, Mistress Dare, and her husband, Ananias, were in the company, and a few days after they had landed on beautiful Roanoke Island, the young woman gave birth to a daughter, who was named Virginia because the name of the country was Virginia. When American states lines were drawn, a couple of hundred years afterward, by the way, Roanoke Island went to North Carolina.

After building a little village and making arrangements for planting and hunting and establishing friendly relations with the Indians, Governor White returned to England to secure more supplies and more colonists.

He expected to be back at the end of the few months required for a round trip across the Atlantic in those days, but portentous things were happening in Europe.

The Spanish Armada was getting ready to attack England, and Queen Elizabeth and the British sailors were bending every nerve to defend the island. Every available ship was seized and turned into a war vessel.

Sir Walter Raleigh made two attempts to succor his colony. Once the ships were ready to sail and were seized by the Admiralty. A second time Governor White actually got to sea, but was driven back by the Spanish warships already in the English Channel.

There were many months of fighting and, after the breaking up of the Spanish fleet, it was many months more before England was in condition to resume ordinary commercial trading.

Finally Governor White managed to secure passage with a sea-captain sailing for the West Indies, who agreed to stop at Roanoke on his return voyage. He landed there in August, 1590, three years after the birth of his grandchild.

On the island there was no sign of human life. Grass grew in the fort. There was no sign of a struggle, no skeletons, no destruction. The huts were empty, but untouched. Carved on the trunk of a tree was the word "Croatoan," which was the name of an island to the southeast.

Governor White concluded that for some reason the colony had removed to Croatoan. The ship started for that island, but after a furious storm the captain turned his prow to England, quite deaf to White's prayers.

Two other expeditions were sent out by Raleigh, in the hope of finding the colony, without avail. Settlers at Jamestown in 1667 were told that the colony had joined the Indians and lived peacefully with them for several years until the medicine men stirred the tribe up to murder all but the children, four boys and a girl.

Was the girl Virginia Dare? Did she grow up, marry an Indian and become the mother of papooses? Who knows?

YOUR HEALTH

Why Chicken-Pox Requires Isolation of the Sufferer

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

WHENEVER a child is taken sick with a chill or vomiting, followed by fever, and in a day or two an eruption begins to develop, there is occasion for apprehension on the part of the parents.

Many really trivial conditions start in this way, but also these may be the initial symptoms of the most dreaded diseases of childhood. It is difficult for anyone, even for the doctor, to tell at the outset what the trouble really is.

One of the many diseases of children which usually announce their arrival by chills, is varicella, or chicken-pox. Instead of a chill, however, the first signs may be pains in the back and legs and vomiting.

Within a day of the first symptoms the eruption appears. This is the distinguishing feature of varicella. It consists at first of red spots, slightly raised above the level of the skin. In a short time the skin over these spots becomes thinned. Then the underlying space fills with fluid and the spots become small blisters.

These local disturbances run their course rather quickly. After a day or two the clear fluid within them becomes cloudy and rapidly absorbs, causing the blisters to shrink in size. By the end of the fourth day they have dried up, leaving dark crusts, that fall off pretty soon. As a rule no scars remain to tell the story, but if the blisters become infected—as they are apt to do if scratched—there may be considerable permanent scarring.

The eruption may not be confined to the skin. Sometimes it attacks the lining of the mouth and throat.

Although an attack of varicella is usually a mild illness in children, the little patients should be carefully watched. Rest in bed for several days and a restricted diet will do much to hasten recovery.

No matter how insignificant the symptoms may seem, the child with varicella should be kept from school and from contact with other members of the family. It is believed that the infection is communicated through discharges from the patient, especially from the blisters, and also from the secretions of the nose, mouth and throat. Danger of infection is not past until the disease has progressed to the point that all the scabs have disappeared.

To relieve the itching, the affected parts may be sprayed several times a day with a solution of three tablespoonfuls of hyposulphite of soda to one quart of water. After the crusts have formed apply oxide of zinc ointment to them.

Varicella is rare in adult life, but if it does occur it may be serious. It must not be forgotten that the condition is one which is sometimes confounded with smallpox.

DORIS MEETS A DEAR LITTLE BASKET WEAVER.

DORIS spied the little birdling flitting in and out of the honeysuckle vines on the porch. She tried to be very quiet so as not to frighten him away, but sad to say, something tickled her nose, and of course she sneezed.

Out sailed the lovely bird with a queer chuckle. Doris would have scolded if she hadn't looked up just in time to see Squeedee, the elfin from Joyland, smiling at her from among the sweet, scented blossoms.

"Oh, Squeedee," she cried. "You tickled me on the nose and frightened away that pretty little bird, and I did so want to know who he was."

"Of course you did," laughed the elfin with a merry twinkle in his black eyes. "That's just why I happened to stop. I knew you were wondering who he was. That's Bobby Orchard Oriole. He and his wife have just rented the fork in the old apple tree out in your daddy's orchard. I think we'll just about find them at home.

Before Doris could ask any questions, she was whisked out to the old apple tree in the orchard.

There in the fork of the tree was the dearest little nest Doris had ever seen. It looked like a lovely basket among the green leaves.

Mrs. Bobby Orchard Oriole was glad to see Squeedee and Doris and invited them up to see her happy little home.

She was such a pretty little bird lady in her olive-brown dress and jet black throat that Doris couldn't help but tell her so, which amused Mrs. Oriole very much.

"Well, I try to dress in plain colors so that I won't be discovered sitting on my nest," she laughed, moving over so that Doris could peek into the lovely basket nest, at her four cloudy, white eggs with dark-brown spots. "Daddy dresses a wee bit brighter than I do. But he can afford to, as he doesn't sit on a nest."

"You know, Mrs. Orchard Oriole," Doris laughed. "I expected to find a swinging nest when Squeedee said your mate was Mr. Orchard Oriole."

"Goodness, no!" laughed a merry voice, and Daddy Bobby Orchard Oriole swung into sight. "Not we orchard orioles. We always build or rather weave basket nests. You probably won't believe me when I say that nearly all the grass woven into that basket is of the same length. Why it took a lot of pains to build that nest. Now our cousin, Mr. Baltimore Oriole, always builds a swinging nest, but Mama Orchard Oriole doesn't like that kind of nest."

"Everyone to her own way," chirped Mama Orchard Oriole. "I like this one best, perhaps because Daddy made it so lovely. I should think a swinging nest would make the youngsters dizzy."

Then she reminded Daddy Orchard Oriole that the food was scarce. Of course, Squeedee and Doris excused themselves and hurried back to the front porch, while Mama Orchard Oriole settled back on her pretty eggs and Daddy Orchard Oriole darted through the air after food.

She Describes an Unusual Lace Dinner Gown.

JUDITH SMITH 'phoned me today.

"It has been ages since you've gone with me to get sketches," she said by way of opening.

"Yes, it has been much too long," I agreed. "When can I go again?" I asked, following through grandly.

"Any time you will," she replied cordially.

The Flounce Treatment of This Sand Lace Gown Is Novel.

"I am tired of going alone," she added.

"Well, it has been so long since I've seen any lovely things except those of Madame's that I'd welcome the chance for a few different ideas," I answered.

We made an appointment to meet, and early afternoon found us tripping along the Avenue.

"Such a sunshiny day as this makes one long for something new," Judith remarked.

"It does, indeed," I agreed. "A hat, a pair of shoes, a frock—anything would be acceptable."

"You'll want a frock when you see the ones I'm going to sketch in here," Judith warned me, leading the way into one of the smartest shops on the Avenue.

I followed her in, and watched with interest while the manikin was sent to don the gown in question.

"It's a relief to see another manikin at work after so many hours put in that way myself," I whispered to Judith.

We waited for a few minutes, and then the gorgeous, tall brunette came tripping toward us, wearing a perfectly lovely sand colored lace frock.

"I should like to have this one sketched for your magazine," the woman in charge said to Judith.

"It will sketch beautifully," Judith assured her, starting immediately to make long deft lines with her soft pencil.

"That is a charming gown," I remarked to her.

"The sand lace is quite the smartest thing we are showing in dinner gowns," the saleswoman told me.

"The perfectly plain lines and the short tier of lace at the bottom are unquestionably smart," I agreed.

"Yes, the charm of this lace gown is its plainness," Judith agreed.

"With just the touch of color in the amber ornaments at the side," I added.

"We are showing lace gowns in other colors, too," the saleswoman told us.

"What colors?" I asked.

"Powder blue, lacquer red and black over flesh," she answered.

I was glad to see the pretty frocks she showed us, as I've been planning to make a simple dinner gown for myself.

How Mrs. Marks Rose to the Emergency.

WITH Mrs. Marks's hand gripping my wrist compellingly, I listened tensely with her for the sound she was so sure would come—a summons upon the door of the hall common to both of our apartments. And when it did come, the ringing of another bell than the one of the vestibule below, she relaxed my hand and drew a deep breath.

"Now, listen here, dearie," she whispered tensely, and to my own surprise, I found myself yielding to her dominance of the situation. "I hain't got nothin' to be afraid of, now that those coats are in here. So I can go to the door with a smooth face. We can't get those coats back now. He'd think you were in it as deep as me. So I'll go to the door and stall him. If he's for me, he can look all through my place, he won't find a button not belonging to me. And if he asks for you—what do you want me to do, tell him you ain't here? Put out your lights and maybe he'll believe me. I'll pretend I don't know nothin' about you."

"No, I must see him," I returned firmly. "It is—a business matter"—my conscience stirred uneasily—"and it will be better if I talk to him. But I shall be very grateful if you will keep him in the hall until I can dress."

I was changing my slippers for pumps as I spoke, and Mrs. Marks stepped briskly to the door.

"I'll keep him," she said. "But you watch out. I'll call through the door, and you can catch my cue, and answer."

She turned with her hand on the doorknob, and flashed me her gamin-like grin. The tortured fear in her eyes had been replaced by a joyous confidence. With the incubus of the furs gone, she appeared to believe herself a match for any member of the police force.

Madge Recognizes a Voice.

I was puzzled for a few seconds to hear no sign of her in the hall. Perhaps she had no intention of answering the doorbell, but was taking the opportunity to get out of the rear entrance of the building to which she had access through her apartment. Then I heard her high heels come clicking noisily down the hall, and paid a mental tribute to her artistry. She had stolen unshod to her apartment, so that she might present the effect of a nervous hurried housewife answering the bell.

I had thrown off Dicky's bathrobe, and was hastily investing myself with the gown from my wardrobe that was most quickly and easily fastened. My strained ears heard the click which told me that Mrs. Marks had put the chain on the door that prevents it opening more than a few inches. Then I heard her voice, querulous, impatient.

"For the love of Lulu, what's eatin' you, ringin' a body's ears off? Well, what do YOU want? I don't know you."

"Maybe it's just as well you don't," I heard a deep voice reply, and placed the voice at once as that of the man who had talked to me at Sag Harbor. "As for what I want, look here."

There was a second's pause, then a scornful giggle from Mrs. Marks.

"Why, look at! All dressed up with his star and everything!"

I could visualize the little scene at the door. The detective evidently had flipped back his coat and exhibited his star, thinking it would intimidate a woman.

"What Brand of Dick Are You?"

Lillian once had outlined to me some of the schemes private detectives use in their pretense that they have legal authority for their acts. Mrs. Marks's joyous ridicule, betraying to me her relief—heartened me wonderfully.

"What brand of dick are you, anyway?" she gibed. "Nobody's paying any taxes for you in this burg. You'll have to come again with something else besides that top of a salmon-can you've got stuck on your vest. Who do you want to see, anyway? I'm a busy woman, I am. I've got a pie in the oven this minute that'll burn, probably, while I'm watching you swell your chest out."

"You're a wise girlie, ain't you?" the man returned half sulkily, but with an unwilling tone of admiration in his voice. "But you don't need to worry. You ain't the bird I'm looking for. It's a different party, a Mrs. Graham. Is she here? And what's the matter with that bell downstairs? I've got a corn on my thumb from pushin' it so steady."

"You mean you've got corns all over the place where your brains are supposed to be," Mrs. Marks retorted joyously. "or you'd have guessed long ago that the bell is out of order."

And then, as if taking the words out of her mouth, there came Lillian's signal, two long rings with a short one separating them.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Solving Some Summer-Comfort Porch Problems.

PAINT and prosperity travel hand in hand. The owner of a country home uses his paint constantly if he is wise, to save the appearance and further the value of his property. Women are catching the spirit also and are painting their furniture in most fascinating fashion.

Now that the season of outdoor living is nearly here, painting and preparing the porch for Summer occupancy is a subject for grave consideration. The porch furniture, if of mission or other wood, probably will need only a fresh coat of oil after it is washed. Or perhaps a coat of water-proof paint, or varnish may be advisable if the porch is not deep enough to offer complete protection from the elements.

Should the furniture be of willow, the possibilities are unlimited. After the pieces receive a good brushing with a stiff brush, they should be scrubbed with soap and water or with paint remover if the color scheme is to be changed. Then, as soon as they are dry, the artist may go ahead. Porch colorings should follow in tone the color of the house walls that surround the porch. If they are brown, the gamut may be run from tans to orange coloring. If the walls are gray or soft green, blues and greens may be used. If white is our background, a black and white scheme may be worked out with the furniture. Cushions will furnish the color needed and the porch may be shaded by the rusty red of Venetian sail-cloth awnings.

Water-proof leather is among the materials being used for porch cushions. These cushions may be had in old blue, soft willow green, rusty red—which is called "tile" color this season—gray, brown, tan and black. The pillows come in square, rectangular and round shapes. Some have a dull gold medallion in the center. The edges are seamed, puffed and in some cases fringed in short lengths. Standard and table lamps of wicker are part of the porch outfitting and are, of course, painted to match, the lining of the shades being of wash silk. Extremists in color painting are buying fabric porch rugs and painting them to add to the color scheme. A paint comes especially for the purpose. The tea-wagon has become a necessity and is built and decorated as befits each family's needs. Some have electric attachments ready to plug in to set the kettle or urn boiling in short order for coffee or tea or to heat a grill for a quick bite.

The wise woman will have a porch wall chest that is weather-proof and fitted with a good lock built along the wall under the windows. In this, all pillows and perishables may be stowed at night instead of taking them indoors and cluttering the hall with them. The chances of their being stolen is probably remote if the house is well back from the street or is in a real country place.

ADVICE TO GIRLS :: :: :: By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a young woman nineteen years old. I have been married once, but am divorced.

I am very much in love with a young man three years my senior. He has asked me to be his bride. He seems very foolish about me, but he talks to other girls. He is jealous of me.

Do you think he loves me? Is he just trying to fool me?

ANXIOUS BABY.

ANXIOUS BABY: As you are not engaged to the young man, it is his, as well as your, privilege to talk to others. He must love you since he has asked you to marry him.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
1.—We are two girls in our teens. Is it improper for a girl to go with a man several years older than herself?

2.—How long should a couple go together before becoming engaged?

3.—Is it improper for a couple who are engaged to have other company?

4.—When a man asks you to be his wife, is it true he loves you?

5.—Is it proper for a girl to continue her friendship with a man who has been angry with her?

6.—How long should a girl wait after getting angry with a friend before keeping company with another?

PANSY AND SWEET PEAS.

PANSY AND SWEET PEAS:
1.—This is quite proper if her parents approve.

2.—Three to six months is usually considered sufficient.

3.—Yes, unless they are together.

4.—It is the greatest proof of a man's love.

5.—Yes.

6.—She need not wait at all. Unless she is engaged she has the privilege of going about with all her friends of whom her parents approve.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl of nineteen and am in love with a young man about two years my senior. He says he loves me but sometime he acts as if he does not care anything for me.

He has been going with another girl a few times lately. I did not say anything about it and went with some of my other friends. He does not like it and asked me not to.

Would you go with them if he quits going with the other girl, or do as he wishes?

Do you think he really loves me? BLUE EYED.

BLUE EYED: As you are not engaged to the young man, he has no right to exact such a promise from you. You are doing quite right in having other friends and interests.

The only proof of a man's love will be his asking you to be his wife—if ever he does ask you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
We are two girls of twenty and we are both in love with a foreigner. Do you think it is proper for an American girl to go with foreigners? Our parents object to our going with him.

ALLIE AND SAVANNAH.

ALLIE AND SAVANNAH: You should respect your parents' wishes in such matters. They always know what is best for you.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on sub jects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 16.

An active day but one full of anxieties and complications is forecast from the dominant planetary rulership. Affairs generally may manifest a restless and unsettled condition, with disturbances and disappointments. It may be extremely hazardous to risk money in any manner, and speculation may be most ill-advised. Those in the employment of others should be careful. All change is under a doubtful sway. In domestic and affectional affairs, the same inauspicious astral government holds force.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a complicated year, with some losses and disappointment unless they hold firm rein over themselves and their affairs. Safeguard the money and the home and make changes with great caution. A child born on this day, although clever and enterprising, may have a checkered career unless it is carefully trained. It will do well in the employment of others.

LADIES' NIGHT

SIDE TALKS

(By Ruth Cameron.)

At the Telephone.

There are certain occasions in life when it is cruel to be kind and kind to be cruel.

And I think one such occasion which is insufficiently recognized is when someone calls upon the telephone when one is busy and one answers the call and does not let the caller know that she is interrupting.

Perhaps you are at the dinner table, when the calls comes. The caller's dinner hour is much earlier than your's. She has been thru half an hour and does not picture anyone else as still at the table. Her husband was just brought home a piece of news which she rightly thinks will be of interest to you and she hastens to let you know about it. You do not like to chill her kindly ardor by saying that you are still at the table, and so you tell her how interesed you are, whereupon she launches into further details and presently passes from that to other topics. It is too late now to tell her that she has been interrupting, and so you sit there trying to be polite, and yet at the same not too encouraging.

Sitting on Pins and Needles.

And all the time you feel as if you were sitting on pins and needles, because you know just how indignant Himself will be when you get back to the table, how he will say he can't see why women will call up at meal time, and he doesn't know why you couldn't just tell her you were eating and shut her off, and he has a good mind to have the telephone taken out, and see if he can get a meal in peace.

In fact if the dinningroom and the telephone are too near each other he is probably shouting some of these comments into your right ear while you listen with your left.

Poor Terminal Facilities.

Or maybe, the inopportune call comes when you have allowed just half an hour to dress and get down town. You give an inward groan when you find it is Mrs. L. Not that you don't like her. You really are very fond of her but you know how poor her terminal facilities are when she gets on the telephone, and you see yourself missing that car and having to wait 20 minutes and being behindhand all the afternoon with your shopping. Of course you should at once let Mrs. L. know that you are in a hurry, but you don't quite like to, she is very sensitive and besides you are indebted to her for a delightful party at her house just the day before and you know she has called up because she wants you to tell her if you liked the party and it would be terribly ungracious to cut her right off. And there you are your ear to the phone and your eye sparring [illegible] on the clock which ticks off 20 minutes before you can politely get away. Of course you miss your car... and the whole afternoon goes wrong.

An Inopportune Telephone Visit

A group of us were playing bridge the other afternoon when a friend of the hostess calledup. The hostess was too slow witted or too honest to give an excuse for terminating the conversation at once and it developed into a telephone visit, while three people waited to play out the hand and thought curses at the lady at the other end of the wire.

How uncomfortable she would be if she found out, I thought to myself. How uncomfortable any one of us would be if we did such a thing. And how unkind it really is to let anyone else do it.

The only fair and kind thing to do is to so explain so promptly that the person does not feel embarrassed at having kept you. I said that there was a time when one has to be cruel to be kind, but after all I don't know that there is any cruelty in that if you do it quickly enough. The cruelty is all in not doing it.

Tomorrow—Many Gifts.

QUIZ METHODIST STUDENTS

Faculty of Southern Methodist University May Expel Those in Alleged Scrape.

DALLAS, Tex., April 15.—Wholesale expulsion of southern Methodist University students was considered today by school authorities as they delved into details of the "wilderness dance" at Savage Lake which celebrated publication of "The Dinkey," outlaw campus paper.

Federal officers claimed today to have additional avidence of the Lake scandal on which to base their demands for prosecution by the special grand jury which reconvenes next Monday.

Several students and "women of the streets" who participated in the party have told their stories, federal prosecutors announced and have agreed to appear before the grand jury.

"There were no S. M. U. girls at the party, we are sure," Dr. Horace M. Whaling, vice president of the university said.

"The Dinky," was reclared an outrage by Whaling.

In its main editorial "The Dinkey" said:

"It is about time to tie the can to several of the old, worn out fossils who walk around our rotunda with their faces two feet long, nonprogressive, pessimistic, physically and mentally dead."

"The students of S. M. U. have no desire to spend their money for the privilege of sitting in class rooms where a suit of clothes bellows out meaningless words. Give us better teachers."

Flaying the co-eds whom it termed "painted sepulchers of abomination" "The Dinkey" said:

"Like a sinous, venomous reptile, she glides across the rotunda.

"We blush with shame at the attire and actions of a godly number of our chorus girl co-eds on University Hill."

Mashes Fingers in Washer.

WYMORE, Neb., April 15.—Arthur, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Marquardt of Wymore, sustained a badly smashed hand Monday, when he stuck his fingers in the wringer of the electric washing machine at the home while the mother was outside hanging clothes. The child was left inside, and the machine was running. The hand was drawn in before the power was shut off by the mother, who rushed in at the child's screams. A local physician took several stitches to close the wounds. No bones were crushed as the rollers were on loose tension.

Baseball Mounts Sport Throne in Major Leagues

USUAL FANFARE IS ON TAP AT OPENERS

Brass Bands Mingle With Long Familiar Chants of Umpires as Curtain Ascends on First Games of Season.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The old bark of the umps, chatters of the coachers and clatter of brass bands echoed far and wide today as baseball returned for another long run in the National and American leagues and the American association.

The lid tilting, curtain raising and spotlight focusing will follow the established lines, with leading citizens firing out the first ball, with bands playing and with umpires chanting thier long familiar cries.

Where They Open Season.

The National league will get away with Brooklyn at New York, Boston at Philadelphia; Chicago at St. Louis and Pittsburgh at Cincinnati.

The American league will open with New York at Boston; Philadelphia at Washington; Cleveland at Detroit and St. Louis at Chicago.

Officials and club owners of the big leagues have reason to expect another season "bigger and better than ever." Interest is just as intense in the game, the competition should be keener in the two big pennint races and the demand for tickets to the opening games indicated a large year.

Interest in the two pennant races will be centered principally in the attempt of the two New York clubs to make a new record by winning four championships in a row. No team in modern days has been able to win more than three successive pennants.

The New York Yanks have been picked by practically all of the experts as a heavy favorite in the American league pennant race with the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers as the chief contenders.

Pick Giants and Reds.

Opinion is divided about the National league race. Some critics favor the strong Cincinnati Reds while others believe that the Giants have picked up enough pitching to hold their own in the race.

Both leagues have been changed greatly since the season closed last year. There are many new managers, many changes of personnel and about 100 young ball players up to make good on the big time.

Babe Ruth, of course, will be a big feature of the season again. He will be a feature, either winning or losing. This year he has taken upon himself the job of making a new home run record, winning the batting championship and landing the prize again for being the league's most valuable player.

Sisler in Comeback.

The attempted comeback of George Sisler, new manager of the St. Louis Browns will also arouse a lot of interest among the American league fans. After having been out o fthe game for an entire season with bad eyes, Sisler will try to resume his place at first base and help his team out of the second division.

Bowling

The Burlingtons, State Oils and Moore Cycles copped the Booster league games rolled on the Lincoln alleys Monday night. D. C. Amos was high point man of the evening with a 576 total. The scores:

The upper one shows Evers, now manager of the White Sox, with Nap Rucker, famous knuckle ball pitcher of a few years ago. In the lower photo Evers is seen with Collins and Bert Neihoff, formerly second baseman with the Philadelphia Nationals and now manager of the Atlantic club.

Fair Weather Brings Out Record Breaking Crowds at Opening Games

CINCINNATI, O, April 15.—Clear, warm weather was on tap here today for the Red-Pirate opener and a crowd of over 32,000 was expected to jam its way into Redland Field to see Pete Donohue and Bubbles Hargrave of the Reds do battery work in opposition to Johnny Morrison and Walter Schmidt. Play was to start at 2:30 p. m., without any ceremonies except the presentation of flowers to Manager Jack Hendricks and other Reds by rooting clubs.

Chicago Sox Play Browns

CHICAGO, April 15.—Bright sunshine promised to draw a capacity crowd this afternoon to the Sox park for the opening game of the American league season between the White Sox and the St. Louis Browns.

Probabel batteries are Robertson and Schank for the Sox and Urban Shocker and Severeid for St. Louis.

Manager George Sisler plans to play first base, his old position before eye trouble forced him out of the game.

Detroit Anticipates Biggest Crowd

DETROIT, Mich., April 15.—With cloudy and cool weather conditions for the opening session, the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians were prepared to begin hostilities here today.

Every reserved seat for the game was sold a month ago and all indications point to a record breaking crowd of around 30,000.

It is expected that Cobb will start George Dauss in the box with Whitehill and Pillette in reserve. Speaker's selection probably will be Coveleskie or Shaute.

Judge Landis at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, April 15.—Judge Landis and Mayor Kiel will formally open the 1924 season in the game between the Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs.

Weather was fine and warm, and a capacity crowd was predicted by club officials on the basis of advance sales.

Bill Doak probably will pitch, and Vick or Holm will catch. Howard Freigau, converted shortstop will play third in place of Milton Stock, holdout.

Weather Ideal for New York

NEW YORK, April 15.—Ideal weather here today greeted the opening of the National league season with the champion Giants playing the Brooklyn Robins at the Polo grounds

The sun came out early in a clear sky and although it was rather cool it was ideal baseball weather for the players and fans.

Advance sale of tickets indicated that a crowd of at least 45,000 would see the first game. Bill Ryan probably will be called upon to pitch for the Giants and Dutch Reuther was expected to get the call from Brooklyn.

Mayor John F. Hylan was booked to toss out the first ball.

President Pitches First Ball.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—President Coolidge will throw out the first ball when the Washington Senators open the season with the Philadelphia Athletics here this afternoon. The weather was fair, with a threat of cloudiness. Walter Johnson and Ruel were the probable Washington batteries with Harris and Perkins doing the work for Connie Mack.

Red Sox Play Champions.

BOSTON, April 15.—With a sharp wind blowing across the field today and a strong sun shining, the Boston Red Sox and the New York world's champions will open the baseball season here this afternoon.

The probable batteries are Ehmke or Quinn and O'Neil for Boston and Jones or Bush and Schang for New York.

Blacks Win Last Of Gridiron Games

Despite the balmy spring weather Monday, two teams of Lincoln high school grid warriers toiled away at the last game of spring practice. Frank Corrick's Blacks won from Phil Teal's Reds, 13 to 0, thereby winning the championship.

The Ruffed Grouse.

The ruffed grouse is the "partridge" of the North, though it has no more right to that title than has the quail in the South, for there are no partridges in North America, only in the old world. Our bird is a grouse, cousin to the "prairie chicken," and "sharp tail," though very unlike either of those birds both in habits and appearance. There is no need for me to describe the bird, he is too well known to require it, and there is no other grouse with which he might be confused unless it be a subspecies like the Canadian ruffed grouse (Bonasa umbellus togata) and a gunner would be put to it to differentiate between them for the difference is simply the result of climate. There are two other subspecies both in the extreme west and north west and may be passed with this mention. Of course, the scientific name of our bird is Bonasa umbellus the first word meaning beast and referring to the bull like nose made by the male, while the last hints of the "umbrella" worn about the neck. ST JOSEPH, Mo., April 15—Things look great here for the opening day of the Western league pennant race of 1924. The St. Joseph club opens with Barney Burch's Omaha aggregation

The day will be celebrated in a high manner and will be featured by a parade which is expected to be five miles long.

Opening day of the 1923 season found the Saint park filled with 7,500 fans That was the largest crowd in the Western league. This year Eddie Tracy, new owner of the club, has set his goal for 10,000, and present indications point to a crowd which will fill the park and overrun the outer gardens.

Too Many Good Hurlers.

The team is in excellent shape and promises to put up a real fight for the pennant. Few members of the last season Saint aggregation are with the club this year. Old players of last year have been changed for men who have hitting and fielding ability.

The new manager, Joe Mathes, formerly of the Texas league, has one worry on his hands. That is, to decide which of the ten pitchers he will keep. Mathes declares he will have to release four hurlers who could come back to St. Joseph with another team and whip the locals. At present, however, six who are likely to stick are Poirier, a St. Joseph product taking his first flyer in baseball of the organized class and declared a find; Alex McColl, with the Saints last season; Claude Davenport last year with Syracuse; Harold Haid, Saint of 1923; "Razor" Dedbetter, another carryover, and Ruel Love, secured from Oklahoma City in a trade for Bob Browne, shortstop.

Saint Catchers Improving.

The catching staff has picked up in the last week and Fred Fisher, Giant receiver, who was going rather slow during the first few weeks of practice, has now taken off weight and is slugging against the best pitchers encountered by the team, now working back from Port Arthur, Tex., the Saint training camp.

The other member of the catching department will be Clarence Brooks, a former Beaumont receiver. He will be in charge of the catching department.

The infield looks great and will be in excellent shape by the time the season opens. Manager Mathes will be on first. Stevenson will likely occupy second base and Wally Gilbert will hang his hat on third. "Yatz" Corrigan will be at the short position. These are all heavy hitters.

The outer gardens will be populated with men who look good this year. Miller and Lewan are last season Saints and have been going great in the exhibition games The third man in the outfield is Nick Demaggio, former Beaumont player, for whom the Saints paid a good price.

Utility man will be Nufer, it is likely. "Packhorse" was with the Saints part of the last season. The rest of it he was with Minneapolis.

OMAHA STRENGTHENED.

OMAHA, Neb., April 15.—The Omaha Buffaloes will break from the western league barrier Wednesday afternoon with one of the best rosters that Barney Burch, owner has gathered since he purchased the club three years ago. The Buffaloes appear on paper to be about the best in "Pa" Tearney's little circuit. Of course on paper and on the field are different, but judging from the exhibition games in which the locals played, the 1924 Omaha team has the punch and fairly good pitching.

Only seven of last year's team are drawing pay checks from Burch this spring. In the new material is a little bit of youth and about an equal amount of seasoned stuff. Joe Bonowitz, outfielder; Lee Bailey and Cullop, pitchers; Wilder, catcher; Wilcox, third; and Thompson, second base, are the last year's men.

Griggs Home Run Hitter.

The infield with Manager Art Griggs at first, Jimmie O'Neill at short and Phelps, substitute infielder make up practically a new infield squad. The outfield has three newcomers — Baggan, Levaille and "Chief" Robinson Brown, a fly chaser, was with the Buffaloes a little in 1927 but not enough to be classed as a veteran.

Art Griggs bids fair to become the "Babe" Ruth of the Weisern loop. To date he has thirteen home runs to his credit in the exhibition games. He was purchased from the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coas league

Jimmy O'Neill comes from the Washington senators in the Byron Speece deal. He is said to be a good shortstop and a clouting good hitter Whether he is all of this remins to be seen

Phelps, substitute infielder, was purchased from Shreveport. He is a promising player according to all reports. Jimmy Wilcox, veteran, will play third and Frisco Thompson will be back at second

Outfield Looks Strong

The outfield of the Buffaloes appears to be as strong as any in the league. Joe Bonowitz is well known in this league. "Chief" Robinson will be remembered as an outfielder for Sioux City. He can hit and field. There is no question about that. Lavaille came to the Buffaloes from the New York Yankees in the Nick Cullop deal. He has been hitting well and fielding good in the exhibitions.

The prize outfielder of the bunch is a veteran by the name of Baggan who was purchased from a Texas league team and has been carving quite a name for himself as a slugger in the south this spring while a member of the Omaha club.

Red Wilder, veteran catcher and a recruit by the name of Seimers will do the catching. This Seimers person crowded George Hale, member of the club for the last two seasons out of the picture at the Shreveuport training camp.

Pitching Not So Good.

The pitching staff as usual isn't strong. Bailey and Lee southpaws of last year and the best in the lot. Nick Cullop, outfielder in 1923 will take his turn on the mound this season. Schermanske came to the club from the senators, while Koupal and Stanton are former Nebraska state leaguers.

They haven't, shown anything great in the exhbitions, Burch is after more pitchers. So are the rest of the western league club owners. It seems to be the opinion of the baseball men, who have visited the various training camps of the western league teams that Omaha will give an extra good, account of itself this season.

THE FANNING BEE-HIVE.

Ed Zink, southpaw, released by Lincoln, will hurl for Beatrice in the Tri-state league, according to word received here Tuesday. The hard luck jinx seems still on Zink's trail. He's a good pitcher but things happen to him at moments when a boot costs a ball game. He lost some heart-breaking games in the state league last season—games that he should have gotten away with as victories. In Bartlesville Sunday, the Western association batters got on his offerings too frequently and Manager Wakefield dropped the axe on Ed's neck.

Oklahoma City, last year's champions of the Western league, is outdoing itself in the way of preparation for another big year. When the gong rings there Wednesday it will find a $100,000 plant glistening with newness which seats 7,000 people and a team which is nearer intact than any other in the loop. The infield, according to the dope, is stronger than last year, but Jack Holland's big question mark is his pitching staff. Loss of Yde, sold to Pittsburgh, weakened Jack's staff of twirlers.

Lincoln is not the only Western league team humbled by a Western association club. Okmulgee walloped the Denver Bears at Okmulgee, Ok., 10 to 4, Sunday That's worse than Bartlesville beat Lincoln.

LITTLE LESSONS IN GOLF

GRASPING DRIVER

Should a driver be grasped at the extreme end of the handle or a few inches down the shaft? Why?

Answered by

TED RAY.

I believe in having a margin of an inch and a half from the top of the shaft, as I think that by so doing the club seems to balance in the hands much better than in the case of gripping at the extreme end. By holding down a little you will be the better able to stand "over the ball," which, in my opinion, should be a great benefit as it will have a tendency to stop slicing.

Golfers Plan To Aid Olympic Fund

CHICAGO, April 15—The Chicago golf clubs plan a group of handicap matches for May 10 to which they will require an admission charge and turn the proceeds over to the Olympic fund.

TULSA'S LEFT SIDE NEEDS BOLSTERING

Some of Stars of Last Year Leave Holes Not Yet Filled—Tesar and Black Are Only Dependable Pitchers.

TULSA, Ok, April 15.—Tho the Tulsa club has the foundation for another winner the recruits secured to take the places of Bennett and Lee have failed to come up to expectations and the Oilers find themselves with glaring gaps on the left side of their ball club.

"Paddy" Bauman is the fourth member of the second place Oilers to depart but Royce Washburn, former Wichita slugger, who was purchased from Spencer Abbott's Reading club, hitting in his well known form and fielding his position with the best of them.

Lelivelt at first is showing spryer action this spring than ever before despite the brunt of manging the team and is hitting better for this time of year than is usual with the Oilers skipper

Two Sluggers in Form.

Lamb in center and Davis in right are stars of the first magnitude and their early showing indicates they are the same long distance hitters as of yore with Lamb, the two-base hit record holder of the league threatening to even distance his own record, while "Yank" has hammered many a home run in the exhibition games.

The catching staff is bolstered considerably, tho this was hardly necessary as Crosby holds his own with any receiver in the circuit. Casey, who will get the situation as second string catcher appears good enough to be a first string catcher on many clubs. He comes from the Norfolk team of the Nebraska State league.

Pitching Strength Questionable.

Pitching again looms forth as an Oiler crevice, with Tesar and Black, Western veterans alone sure of their berths. Brindza from Minneapolis, formerly of St Joseph; Blaeholder secured from the St. Louis Browns; Wiltse from Sapulpa of the Southwestren league and Pence from Houston, Texas league and Clark, Tulsa holdover are next in line for Oiler berths with Williams,, Bolen, Strickey, Mazouch, Richter, rookies who show promise but are hardly ready for a Western league berth without additional polish.

Fisher, who came with Brindza in the deal for Mitchell with Minneapolis has been alternating with Flippin, formerly of Sapulpa, at third and short. Both are fair prospects but have not worked well together. Simmons obtained from the St. Louis Browns, will play third. He hit .360 in the Texas league last year.

Austin, who was given a trial last spring with Tulsa, but who was loaned to the Springfield, Western association club has returned. His work has been only fair.

CAN DO NO WORSE.

DENVER, Col., April 15—If old man dope can be believed, the 1924 Denver Bears should finish in the first division and if not in the first four at least no worse than fifth. It is also quite true that no team ever won a pennant in April, but still Mr. and Mrs. Denver Fan, tired of two years of tail end baseball, believe that Joe Berger, wise old Western leaguer, former Wichita manager, is the Moses to lead the Bears on to bigger and better things.

One thing is certain—the 1924 edition of the Bears can do no worse than the preceding editions of 1922 and 1923, and every indication points to the fact that the Denver team will be giving the rest of the teams in the league a battle in September as well as in April.

Only a few remain from last year's eighth place club. Billy Gilbert, the manager; Ben Diamond, first string catcher; "Waddy" MacPhee, "Pep" Young, and many others who pastimed here last summer are gone. They will not be missed. The big loss to the club was the claiming of Olin Voight, star righthander, by the St.Louis Browns over the waiver route from the Giants.

Five new players were purchased during the winter and training period. They were: Joe Berger, new manager, purchased from Wichita Falls; Jack Roche, signed as a free agent from Oklahoma City; Henry Gingiardi, outfielder, purchased from Oklahoma City; Ed Handley, third baseman, secured in a trade with Houston and Charley (Scrap Iron) Gorman, infielder, who performed so creditably with Des Moines last year, purchased outright from Vernon.

Four old pitchers, Hall, Gross, and Vorhies, righthanders, and "Curly" Brown, premier lefthander of the loop, are again present, together with six new twirlers, all of them rookies

Two outfielders, O'Brien and Caffey, who joined the team late in the fall, remain from last year.

Owner Anfenger and Manager Berer are confident with the addition of these new men and the stars of last year's team that the Bears will have a punch, both offensively and defensively. Two more pitchers and a hard hitting first baseman and the team is "set" for the race. Denver opens with Tulsa at Tulsa April 16.

The roster:

Catchers—Roche Whaling, McQuitty.
Pitchers—Hall, Brown, Gross, Voorhies, Wennberg, Greenwade, Pinneo, Dulany and Lewis.
Infielders—Donovan, Gorman Handley and Berger, also recruits Conrad and Thissell.
Outfielders—Gingiardi, O'Brien and Caffey.
Catcher—Falk.

CATCHER WEARS ONLY MASK ON K. K. K. TEAM

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 15—Chapters of the Knights of ku klux klan here have organized an amateur baseball team and the team has been admitted to the Fort Worth Amateur association.

In the same league is a team organized by the Knights of Columbus. The schedule for the season calls for several games between the two teams.

The ku klux players first found by the spotlight when when they contracted for their practice field. The field on one side is bounded by a cemetery for Jewish people and on the other side is a Catholic hospital

The ku klux team will not be different from any other in the league, according to Manager Steve Ellis. The uniforms of the players will bear a flaming cross on a white background, while the letter "K" will adorn the cap.

"The only played to wear a mask on the field will be a catcher," Ellis announced.

South American Expects to Tour America This Summer—Dave Shade Wins in Bout With Schoell at Buffalo.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight champion, has booked passage for the United States and will sail April 24, according to information received by Billy McCarney, his New York representative.

The United Press carried a cable story from Buenos Aires last Saturday saying that Firpo was not going to retire and planned to return to New York.

McCarney said he had not been advised of Firpo's plans for the summer but that he was going ahead and sign up dates for the exhibition tour which the South American had planned to make this summer.

No efforts, McCarney said, would be made to sign Firpo for any big matches until he arrives here to talk with promoters.

Shade Wins Over Schoell.

BUFFALO, N Y, April 15.—Dave Shade, California middleweight, won a ten round decision from Frank Schoell, Buffalo. Jimmy Slattery middleweight knocked out Pat Walsh, Cincinnati, in the second round

NEW YORK, April 15.—Requests from Francois DesCamps for a postponement of the Tunney-Carpentier fight until July 4 will be denied, Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney said today. Gibson said that he would take legal action to prevent Carpentier from meeting Tom Gibbons at Michigan City on May 30.

Wymore Gun Club Winner.

WYMORE, Neb., April 15.—The Wymore Gun club won over the Odell club on the Wymore grounds, near Blue river bridge, yesterday afternoon by a margin of forty-four points. Jay Hayden of Wymore won high individual score, breaking forty-five blue rocks out of fifty, and R. Fries of Odell was high for that team with a score of thirty-seven out of fifty.

TROUBLE IS NOW BREWED

IMMIGRATION QUESTION MAY CAUSE COMPLICATIONS.

Senate's Vote Abrogating Gentleman's Agreement Foreshadows Adoption of Drastic Exclusion Provision.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—As the senate today prepared to adopt by an overwhelming vote the provision excluding Japanese immigrants, the air of official and diplomatic Washington thickened with portends of trouble over the manner in which this question has been handled.

These developments preceded meeting of the senate:

1—The cabinet discussed the problem, recognized as presenting grave possibilities of misunderstanding with Japan.

2—Senator Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee, conferred with President Coolidge.

3—Senator Reed, Pennsylvania, author of a compromise exclusion provision conferred with Secretary of State Hughes.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Veto of the immigration bill, recall of Ambassador Hanihara of Japan and probable diplomatic complications were among the possibilities discussed here today following the senate's angry gesture regarding the exclusion clause of the pending immigration measure.

The senate's vote yesterday abrogating the gentlemen's agreement, which up to this time has served as the method of regulating Japanese immigration into this country, clearly foreshadowed adoption of a drastic exclusion provision.

While in congress there is apparently but one mind concerning Japan's protest thru Hanihara, against the exclusion provision, President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes feel themselves in an embarrassing position. They can understand why congress is angry at Japan's daring to interfere with legislation on a domestic question, pending before congress, but they, nevertheless, are concerned about the consequences of congress' anger.

It, therefore, has been suggested that Mr. Coolidge will veto the immigration bill, when it comes to him carrying the exclusion clause. But the present temper of congress is such that a veto will be overridden.

It is considered doubtful that Senators Lodge, Pepper, Reed (Pennsylvania), Willis and others could retract their criticism of the meddling of Ambassador Hanihara on a domestic question.

As for the house, the managers of both parties have served notice on the administration that no immigration legislation can be enacted at this session unless it contains a Japanese exclusion provision. When the Shortridge amendment, which is similar to the exclusion provision carried in the bill passed by the house has been voted on, the troublesome quota provision will be settled. Senate republicans in conference agreed on 1 per cent of the census of 1910 as the basis. If this is carried the difference between the house bill which provides for 2 per cent on the census of 1890 must be reconciled in conference.

THOMAS GIVEN RECEPTION

Non-Political Welcome Given by Neighbors to Democratic Nominee for U. S. Senator.

Judge J. J. Thomas of Seward, democratic nominee for United States senator, was given a non-political reception by his neghbors Monday evening. A banquet was served at 7 o'clock attended by one hundred or more citizens, including many prominent republicans of Seward. Judge and Mrs. B. F. Good, Mrs. W. M. Morning and State Tax Commissioner and Mrs. W. H. Smith of Lincoln were among the guests.

Prof. R. D. Moritz, toastmaster, paid a tribute to Judge Thomas in his introductory remarks. H. A. Graff, former mayor of Seward, a republican, spoke of thirty-five years acquaintance with Mr. Thomas. Mrs Josephine Mickel speaking for women, told of his activities for the welfare of the community.

Judge Good of Lincoln told of the standing of Mr. Thomas as a lawyer and his success at the bar. He reviewed the Capital National bank case which Mr. Thomas prosecuted for twenty-five years and won after going twice to the supreme court of the United States.

Mr. Thomas responded briefly to the plaudits of his fellow citizens. He closed by saying that whether he is elected or defeated he will never forget this occasion.

Music by an orchestra was furnished during the banquet. Several parodies were sung, led by Mrs. H. Smith of Lincoln.

FROST THANKS HIS FRIENDS

Made a Better Showing Than He Thought Possible in Brief Time at Hand.

Judge Lincoln Frost Tuesday made public a statement relating to the recent campaign, thanking his friends for their efforts. He said:

"I deeply appreciate the vote given me at the recent primary election,—all th emore because I know it was largely on account of the interest of the voters in the juvenile and domestic relations court. Neither do I forget the several hundred voters who tried to cast their ballots the same way and failed because of lack of understanding how to legally do so.

"I was very reluctant to allow my name to be used as a candidate and only consented because of my great interest in the juvenile court, and after being assured that I would not be expected to take an active part in the campaign. From the beginning failure seemed almost certain; however, during the short campaign more interest was aroused than I thought possible.

"The committee which managed the campaign and their co-workers, owing to the great handicap to the voters having to write in my name, secured quite as large a vote as could reasonably have been expected. I sincerely and earnestly thank all who assisted.

"In conclusion I want to express the hope that among the four judges, who are finally elected, one will be found who is really interested in continuing the great work of the late Judge Morning in the juvenile court and in that of domestic relations."

COUNTY FARM IS TOPIC

Welfare Society Hears Reports on Conditions ni County's Home for Aged and Dependent.

Conditions at the Lancaster county poor farm was the subject of discussion at the noon meeting of the Social Welfare society at the Grand hotel Tuesday. About forty of those interested in hte work were present.

Manford Lillefors, a welfare worker, outlined the sort of life lived by the inmates. He complained of the inadequacy of the staff of the institution, stating that the appropriations for carrying on that sort of work were much too small. He also pointed out that more work was needed to keep the inmates busy.

Miss Emma Piekarski, a visiting worker, closed the program with a short resume of interesting incidents disclosed by delving into the old records of the institution. The records of the farm, she stated, are complete for more than fifty years back.

ACTING POLICE HEAD ACTS

Taxi Drivers Must Stay Within the Law or Follow Some Other Line of Business.

In a short and brisk communication to the council, Acting Chief of Police Walter Anderson makes it sort of positive that while he is in the saddle, taxicab drivers must obey the law or get out of that line of business. Police Judge Chappell caused one driver's license to be cancelled and now comes the acting chief with notice of cancellation by him of another. His letter to the council:

"B. B. McClanahan, holding a license to drive a yellow taxicab, had same cancelled by order of Judge Chappell because of speeding on April 15. Also Howard Hayden's license to drive a yellow taxicab is to be cancelled by Acting Chief of Police Anderson because of a fine of $100 and costs for disorderly conduct on April 14."

Lon Shover of Des Moines Fatally Hurt in Race With Omaha Police Car.

OMAHA, April 15.—Insane, according to letter written by himself and found in his pocket, and intent upon suicide, Lon Shover, Des Moines, lies at the point of death here today as a result of injuries received when his automobile, speeding fifty miles an hour, crashed into a telegraph pole late last night.

The accident occurred at the end of a four mile race with a police car. The officers had come upon Shover sitting in his automobile in a lonely spot. As they approached, Shover started his machine and maintained a terrific speed thru the city streets until he lost control. His chest was crushed, and he cannot recover, physicians said.

The letter, addressed to Shover's brother Des Moines, said:

"I have gone insane. You will never see me alive again. Forgive me. I have failed to make good. I love father and mother so much I have gone insane."

RAILROAD TO WAIT AWHILE

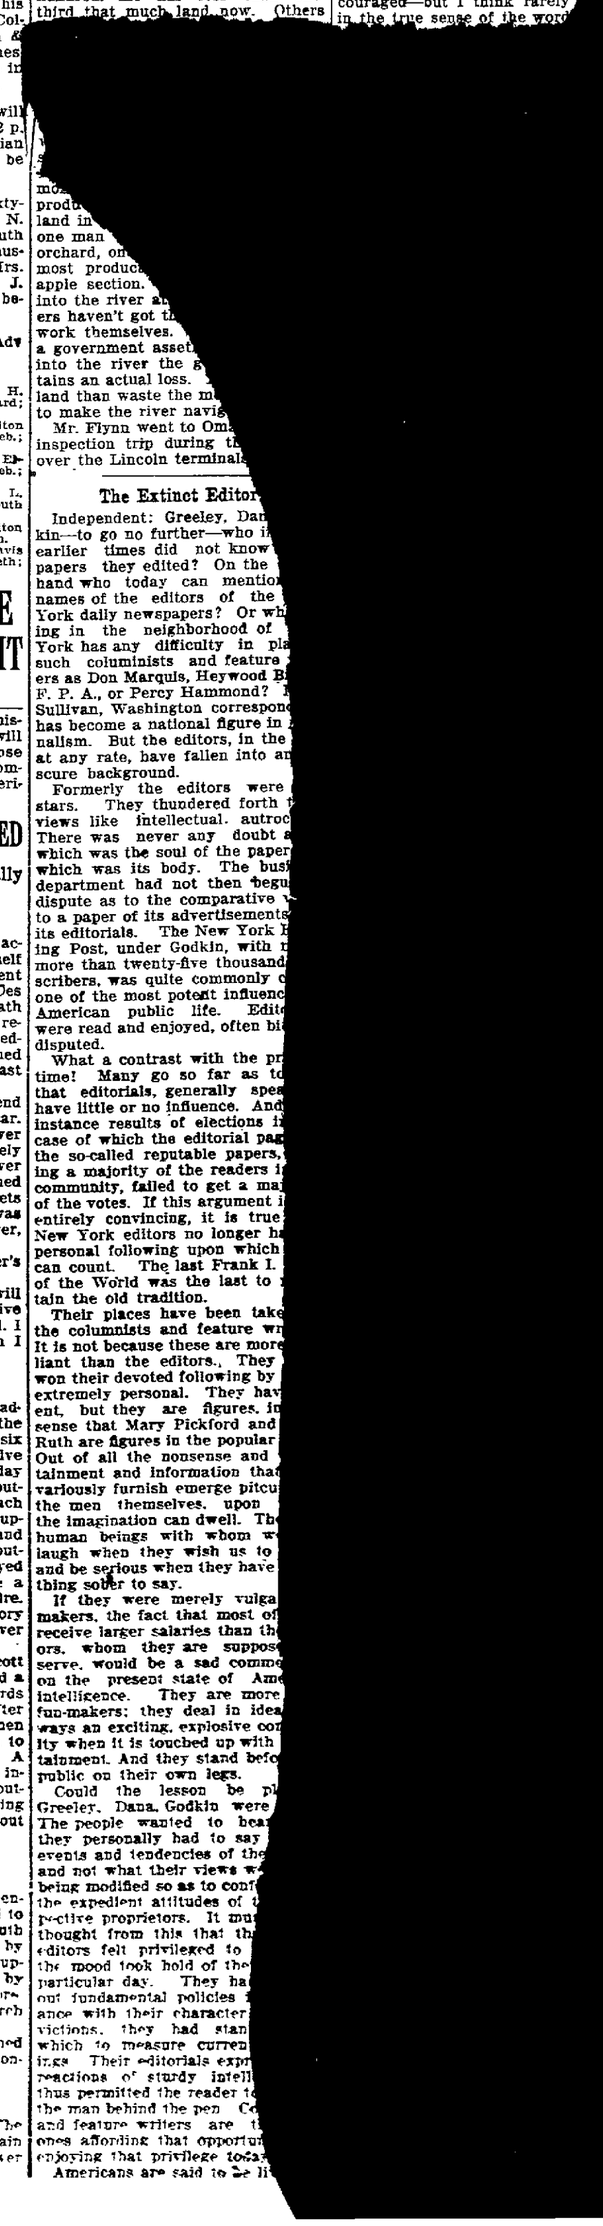

BURLINGTON MAY BE FORCED TO MOVE TRACKS.

Will Not Do So, However, Until the Missouri River Gets a Bit Closer and More Threatening.

The Burlington railroad probably will be forced to move its branch line track for a considerable distance in the vicinity of Barney in Otoe county before long, but it will not do so until it is made clear that the move must be made. If a move is made, however, it will be in the nature of a last stand, a move of a distance of a thousand feet in one place to get as near the bluffs as possible, in its retreat from the aggressive Missouri river.

"We may have to move," said General manager Flynn of the Burlington in Lincoln Tuesday morning, after he had spent Monday afternoon looking over the situation. "We won't move until it is made clear that notihng else remains to be done."

Year after year protective work and track moving has been in progress near Barney station, south of Nebraska City. Farmers have lost their land holdings. One man whose farm is crossed by the Burlington began with a little less than three hundred. He has less than one-third that much land now. Others

HOW STUPID IT IS TO BE BORED

By Julia Hoyt.

There are some people who believe that it is proving their superiority to appear bored. But the remark of Booth Tarkington that he had never felt bored merely confirmed my belief that the really intelligent people are the ones who are never bored.

It is entirely up to you whether you will change what might be a tiresome situation or person into an amusing one thru your own cleverness, imagination or sense of humor. Also, self-resourceful people do not often find themselves with people who bore them, for they are not apt to be in a frame of mind to prefer uncongenial society to solitude. It sounds brutal, but I really believe that many people will put up with anyone rather than be alone.

Woman's usual excuse for boredom is: "What can I do? I am married; I have my children, my house, to care for—all duties which are not intellectually stimulating and yet leave me no time."

In the first place, there is almost no one who cannot find time to be alive intellectually if she really wishes to; in the second place, it is up to her whether she allows her children, her husband and her home to be boring factors in her life instead of interesting ones. I am not considering in this article the woman who takes entire charge of her house and children, for, she is often tired—perhaps sometimes discouraged—but I think rarely [illegible] in the true sense of the word

[illegible] object in view or, in her opinion, only the usual boring household duties; in consequence whether she is driving from shop to shop in her motor or performing her household duties she is bored because she has nothing to think about.

Another woman I know reads and is interested in what is going on in the world today. She finds interest in newspapers and magazines, takes the time to read books which give her things to think about; and in addition, perhaps her life is so organized that she can have a very decided hobby or interest outside of her home. This woman wakes in the morning looking forward to the day to come and while she is occupied in things that may not demand exertion from her brain, she has plenty in that brain to keep her amused and happy.

I have often heard people inclined to make fun of those who indulge in a hobby or interest in something many would consider foolish. They are wrong, for the subject of your interest is unimportant—as long as you have some interest which adds to your happiness. Also there is always the chance of one thing leading to another. It is amazing to discover after the initial effort of real concentration on something how much more alive we become and how many roads of interest seem to open before us. If we are interesting and alive others become interested in us, and we gain more from them in ideas and stimulus. As we use our brains we find our capacity for understanding increasing almost day by day—and boredom flies out of the window.

I believe there are many who have large resources within themselves if they only knew themselves. Sometimes this is proved by people who for years were absolutely ineffectual and who thru force of circumstance had to make an effort and became extremely efficient and important people. If people only knew the enormous happiness and contentment derived from interest in people and yet in independence of them they would take the trouble to discover qualities in themselves which enabled them to attain this self-[illegible] ciency.

ELECT LIST OF TEACHERS

BOARD VOTES TO APPROVE RECOMMENDATIONS.

Names of Four Hundred and Nineteen Regular Instructors Presented—No Office Assistants Included.

The board of education voted Teusday to adopte the superintendent's recommendation to elect a list of 419 teachers, principals, supervisors and directors, for the school year 1924-25, at salaries per schedule. H. P. Shepherd, principal of the high school, was reappointed for a term of three years, to become effective July 1, 1924, at his prsent salary, $5,000. Mr. Shepherd is now completing his original three years' term. His appointment calls for twelve months' service, with a vacation of one month and reimbursement for railroad and Pullman fare to two educational meetings.

Superintendent Lefler stated that no changes in salaries would be made except according to the referendum of January 31, 1921, which provided for the following salary schedule:

Minimum for regular teachers, $1,000.
Maximum for normal school graduates, $1,600.
Maximum for teachers with A. B. degree, $2,000.
Maximum for teachers with A. M. degree, $2,200.
Automatic annual increase until maximum is reached. $100.

Mr. Lefler expressed the belief that the expense of the instructional side of the city schools would be kept within the $800,000 budget provided for last year. Some high priced teachers will drop out for various reasons and new ones coming in would start lower on the schedule. The list presented does not include the total number that will be required another year. No part time teachers nor office assistants are included and no provision is being made at this time for the extra teachers who will be needed on account of growth in population.

COOLIDGE TO SELECT MATE

ONE TO RUN WITH HIM MUST BE STAUNCH PARTY MAN.

President and Hughes to Write Platform Which Will Express G. O. P.'s Purpose to Punish Official Wrongdoers.

By Lawrence Martin

Copyright 1924 by the United Press

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In selecting his running mate and writing the platform of his party this year, President Coolidge will refuse uncompromisingly to try to please the LaFollette liberals or any other group outside the regular conservative republicans.

The president is understood here to have very definite ideas about both the man who will occupy the second place on the ticket and the platform on which he is to run. The platform undoubtedly will be drafted at the white house, with the president and Secretary of State Hughes taking a leading part in writing it. This subject has already received general consideration so that it is well understood that Mr. Coolidge wants the platform to do these things:

1—Express the party's purpose to punish all wrong doers in official places. This will be done without in any way cringing under criticism, or accepting all the blame for conditions revealed by the scandal investigation.

2—Pledge the party to uphold "majority rule" in the conduct of the government, as distinguished from rule by coalitions or blocs. In other words, the platform will constitute an attempt to rally voters anew around the party standard and restore the broken down party system.

3—Point with pride to republican achievements and promise a constructive program of legislation and governmental economy, providing the country will give the party a working majority in congress.

The president wants a running mate who is a thoroly staunch party man, who has been steadfastly true to the regular wing of the party and who will not, if elected, be likely to "play with" the various blocs and groups in the senate.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

A sensational attempt at Hastings to take the life of Mrs. C. F. Morey won a position on the front page of the Journal, something which was rarely accomplished by local or state news at that time.

The Chicago platform democrats gave a dollar dinner in honor of Bryan in New York. Nearly 3,000 men and women attended.

The engagement of J. Cecil Graham and Miss Daisy Stoddard was announced.

Miss Fib Kelley left for New York city where she would spend the summer with her sister studying music.

Lincoln excisemen were arguing that they earned the $25 allowed each of them as his monthly salary. They had been holding almost daily sessions and when not in session they had been beset with office seekers and saloonkeepers.

Judge W. A. Coffin was lying in a precarious condition with lung and heart trouble.

DELEGATES TO NAPLES.

NEW YORK. (By mail.)—Columbia university will send three delegates to the celebration of the seventh centenary of the Royal University of Naples, Italy, to be held during the first week in May. The faculty members selected are: Dr. William B. Dinsmoor, associate professor of architecture; Dr. Robert Herndon Fife Gebhard, professor of German; Dr. La Rue Van Hook, professor of Greek and Latin.

SEEK TO RESTORE PROFITS.

BERLIN, April 15.—Protective tariffs on foodstuffs and machinery, to aid the swollen junkers and the "suffering industrialists," will be laid in Germany if the ultra-reactionaries win in the reichstag elections May 4. Behind the fulsome "patriotic" utterances of the alleged saviors of the vaterland stands a plan to put into effect the duties whereunder junkerdom and industrialism waxed wealthy before the war.

INQUIRY INTO A SHOOTING

Chief Petty Officer at Great Lakes Is the Victim of Another in Mess Hall.

CHICAGO, April 15.—A board of inquiry at the Great Lakes naval training station today questioned witnesses to the murder last night of Daniel B. Wentworth, chief petty officer, by F. W. Helmer, another chief petty officer. In a mess hall, in the presence of scores of fellow officers, Helmer fired six shots point-blank at Wentworth.

Two bullets pierced Wentworth's heart, and he fell dead at Helmer's feet.

A quarrel over Wentworth's alleged attentions to Mrs. Helmer caused the tragedy, it was stated.

Capt. Waldo Evans, commandant of the station, ordered a wall of secrecy around the affair, and officially there was no information forthcoming except that the killing had occurred. From friends of the two men it was learned that Helmer, who had been married several months, had had an altercation with Wentworth. The altercation was caused by Wentworth's attentions to Mrs. Helmer, it was stated.

DALLAS, Tex., April 15.—Perched on the top of a ten-story building, the new home of the University club of Dallas, when completed, will be unique in Texas, if not in the entire country. Far above the streets of Dallas, the club members will entertain their guests on a lawn of real grass and even indulge in a game of tennis on a sure-enough dirt court.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, April 15.—Grains started irregular on the board of trade today. Wheat prices eased off at the start, induced by weakness in Liverpool and small export business.

Corn was without any distinct factors which would tend to move the market in either direction. Prices however, slumped slightly in sympathy with wheat.

Oats ruled steady lacking any features. Provisions started steady with hogs and cables.

Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, April 15.—An impression prevails that small holders of May wheat will gradually liquidate and widen the discount, under May. In the meantime, largest elevator operators are buying May and selling July wheat.

There was liberal buying of May here and selling of Winnipeg by houses with eastern connections.

Despite 68,888,000 bushels of wheat or 15,000,000 bushels more than last year, on ocean passage, foreign markets are showing moderate strength.

World's exports so far this season: Wheat, 548,800,000 bushels vs. 467,000,000 last year; corn, 59,300,000 vs. 94,600,000.

Demand for cash corn is not so keen. Seeding of the new oats crop is progressing fast and practically completed in parts of the belt. A good class of buying is evident in July lard.

Contract stocks of wheat in public elevators in Chicago Saturday night aggregated 4,455,000 bushels, decrease for the week 61,000 bushels. Last year 1,435,000 bushels. Corn 1,816,000 bushels. December 59,000 bushels. Last year 3,644,000 bushels. Oats 2,059,000, December 64,000. Last year 1,672,000.—Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

Hulburd, Warren & Chandler: Lower prices for wheat and corn appear likely.

Stein Alstrin: Narrow trading markets are expected.

Bartlett-Frazier & Co.: It will require something unusual to bring about better markets.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: Increasing discounts for the cash month do not go with a bull market.

Clement Curtis & Co.: We think wheat will decline to an export basis and that corn will follow wheat.

Thomson McKinnon: There appears nothing to break the dull spell.

Logan & Bryan: On dips, we think corn and oats can be bought for quick turns.—Lamson.

Journal of Commerce Report

CHICAGO, April 15.—Unless something develops to encourage increased speculation in grain, it is believed prices will have to decline to such a low level that cash interests will anticipate future needs on a more liberal scale than they have ben doing. The feature in the wheat trade yesterday was heavy selling in May wheat and the purchase of July by a laeding elevator house.—Lamson.

Foreign Cables.

LIVERPOOL, April 15.—Wheat opened today ⅜c lower to ¼c up. Wheat at 3 p. m. ⅜c up to ⅛c lower. Wheat closed today ⅛@⅜c lower.

BUENOS AIRES, April 15.—Wheat closed here last night ½@1c up. Corn closed here last night ½c up.

Export Grain Demand.

CHICAGO, April 15.—Export sales of 300,000 to 100,000 bushels of wheat; all Manitobas, were reported at the seaboard, in addition to which 25,000 bushels hard was sold at the gulf late Saturday. The general demand from abroad is slow.—Lamson.

Herald-Examiner Report.

CHICAGO, April 15.—Grains lack speculative support. Early forecast indicates unsettled, showers in central states, rain or snow in northwest.—Lamson.

News Summary.

Wilson & Co. annual meeting at noon today in New York.

Kelly-Springfield passes the 8 per cent dividend.—Lamson.

Stock Market Opinions.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: We would rather buy than sell stocks at these levels.

Logan & Bryan: The market appears to be in a discriminating period from a buyer's standpoint.

Thomson McKinnon: Constant conflict between the executive and the legislative departments of our government is bringing about general depression.

Lamson: Selling in Stewart-Warner and Yellow Cab shares yesterday represented short sales and liquidation.

Broadan Wall: The one encouraging feature yesterday in the stock market was the apparent covering in such shares as steel common, American Can and some others under cover of extreme weakness elsewhere. Selling in oils was largely professional.

New York Times: Strength in foreign exchange is regarded as significant. Events abroad seem to be moving more rapidly toward a favorable conclusion that appeared possible.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Stocks gave evidence of an oversold condition in the early dealings. Although Baldwin went into new low ground for the year at 109¾, Stupdebaker rallied more than a point to 83¾ and American Can was in good demand above 97.

Despite the omission of the Kelly Springfield eight per cent preferred dividend, the common showed only a fractional loss of 15⅝. Business news was more optimistic, pig iron bookings last week totaling close to four thousand tons, the best weekly showing in the past month.

Opening prices included: American Can 97¾; Union Pacific 128⅜ off ⅝; Norfolk and Western 127 up ¼; C. & O. 70⅞ off ⅛; Studebaker 82⅞ up ¼; Cuba Cane pfd. 55⅝ off ¼; Southern Pacific 87⅝ off ⅛; Southern Ry 52¼ off ⅜; Marland 35⅝ off ⅜; U. American-Trained Chinese.

J. J. Heeren, Shantung University professor in Current History magazine: Altho not subject to the director general of Tsingtao and lying mostly outside the old German area, any survey of what the Chinese did in 1923 with their restored rights in Shantung should mention the work of the Shantung railway, now called the Kiaochow-Tsinan railway. The task was begun under great difficulties. The Japanese had trained neither a Chinese operating nor a Chinese administrative staff, with the result that when China tock over the railway she was obliged to find more than a thousand men to take the places of the Japanese. There were also structural difficulties.

In view of these handicaps and the fact that the profits of the road for 1923 were more than sufficient to pay the interest on the money due the Japanese, as well as the fact that the business of the line increased 15 per cent during the year, one is justified in considering the first year of Chinese control a fairly successful one. This record, however, is largely due to the forty and more American-trained Chinese on the railway staff. They have attacked the problems of the road with vigor and courage. The vice managing director is C. T. Chu, bachelor of arts and master of business administration of Harvard university. While the returned students have been crowded out, as far as possible, from the city government of Tsingtao, they practically control the policy of the Shantung railway. Unfortunately, the profits of the line sorely tempt the military men. During the summer of 1923 the Peking militarists tried to mortgage the surplus profits, amounting to 800,000 Mexican dollars, deposited in the banks, as security for a loan, but a timely exposure by the younger men of the railway staff stayed the greedy hands. The railway's best protection is the debt China owes Japan for returning it. According to the final agreement Japan is to receive as compensation the sum of 40,000,000 gold yen, and interest at 6 per cent, until the sum is paid. If the militarists should so impoverish the railways that the capital or the interest could not be paid, they might make it possible for Japan to retain the enterpirse—a possibility that would make the Peking war lords hesitate.

DECORATING FOR SPRING.

The School Girl's Room.

It is of the utmost importance that the room in which the very young girl must spend most of her home time be cheerful and happy. As she is passing thru the most important part of her youth, everything in the way of environment has some peculiar influence on her mental growth. Every detail of the decoration of her room must be thought out carefully in regard to its effect on the girl. The essentials of the room should be beauty, utility, and a pleasant arrangement. These things will without doubt help in the ordering of her thoughts, the beautiful pa rts representing her dreams and theu seful parts helping toward a better sense of use.

There are the necessary articles of furniture, such as the bed and dresser and writing table and chairs, but they san be treated in such a way as to make them things which are beautiful and lovely to live with.

Another factor which really has great importance is the bedside table and lamp. The school girl will naturally stay up late to read a book every chance she gets, so don't discourage her in this. Rather place a tableand lamp and books beside her head so that it will be a porper and comfortable thing to do. Also keep happy flowers in her room on the table or growing in pots beside the window. Be sure that there is plenty of light and air as these are more essential to the young than to older persons.

In the illustration is shown a typically love lygorl's room. The color scheme has been particularly chosen It is of pale yellow, turquoise blue and lavender, all spring time colors and hopeful and bright without being youthfully crude and brilliant. The wallpaper is of pale yellow stripes on white with a wide border near the ceiling featuring scallops of garlanded flowers in pinks and blues and the other pale pastel shades. A young girl will have enough of the oranges and intense blues in her own nature so they need not be used as influences.

The woodwork of the room and the floor are of turquoise blue, and the frame of the mirror and the lamp stands are of the same brilliant cheerful color. A plain table placed directly beneath the window serves for a writing place and has been beautified by yellow paint and a flounce of dainty cretonne in lavender, blue and yellow with som eblack in the design. The little chair has a padded back, covered in cretonne and a ruffle around the seat. The bookcase ha sbeen purposely placed beside the table so that one can easly reach for a reference book or pad of paper.

The cretonne is used lavishly throughout the room, in ample folds around th bed sa a valance and covering the cushion and other chair seats. The valance over the window is odd in design, giving the effect of an arch, while beneath the arch are draped curtains of crisp yellow organdie, edged with tiny blue braid.

The Thinness of Terence.

Two Irishmen met after a year's separation, and were exchanging gossip.

"And how is Terence O'Toole these days?" asked Tim.

Mike shook his head dolefully.

"Ah, Tim, it's a dyin' mon Terence is."

"Dyin'? And phwat makes ye think that, Mike?"

"Why, he's gettin' so thin! Now, you're thin, Tim, and I'm awfully thin, but sure poor Terence is thinner than both of us put together."—Everybody's Magazine.

MEN AND THINGS

One of the labor members of the British cabinet was called upon by a delegation the other day to protest that the course he was pursuing in a certain matter was not the method of dealing with it that labor, before it got into power, alid down as the proper way. The cabinet officer replied something to the effect that he had written a book on government from the labor viewpoint, before he came int opower, and that he had discovered, now that he was called upon to act with the interests of the empire in view, he could not find the answers to any problems by simply turning to page 333 of that book. Which is another way of saying he knows now he did not know then what he was writing about. It takes courage to be consistent, but a government is in no danger from men who are free to admit error.

Ambition and greed are at the bottom of a lot of our individual and national problems. A very considerable part of our legislation is enacted for the purpose of correcting the evils that these two forces have wrought in our economic structure. We sometimes think that what may be termed natural injustices are the most cruel things of life The man who is selfish, greedy, reckless of the rights of others and who grabs for what he gets is the man who gets what he wants, while the man who is considerate of the rights of others, kindly disposed and courteous and self-effacing gets little of what he wants. This fact tends to make men more collous and careless, and thus the snowball gathers substance. Perhaps the hopelessness of any effort to cure this is at the bottom of the belief that the collection of the reward of the righteous must be postponed until the hereafter.

Dr. Wells of Wesleyan laid down a truth the other day that deserves to be rescued from the obscurity of the news columns and given due prominence in this one. Speaking of the group of silly taddists at Northwestern who resolved never to go to war under any circumstances, he said: "A type of religion that unfits a man for the duties of citizenship is the worst kind of religion." We are against war, but we live in a world of war. In other words, what we do to end war must be done with consideration for existing facts and conditions. One of the duties of citizenship is to defend one's country when such defense is necessary, just as one of the duties of a man is to defend from attack those to whom he owes protection. A religion that teaches men to disregard inherent duties is not a religion at all.

In spite of the growth of education one sometimes doubts whether as earnest and persistent an effort is being made now as before the light was turned on so many corners to find the meaning of life. Certainly nothing is more important to an individual than the meaning of what he is doing, yet a greater indifference to it is manifest in all walks of life. We seem to go on the theory that as it is a very hard problem to solve we might just as well shrug our shoulders and let it go at that. While we are doing it we might as well, we add, acquire wealth, which so many seem to think is an interpretation of that meaning. The false standards that wealth evolves and the undermining of moral health that so often accompanies its possession and use are proof that this is not the answer, but how many care?

Progress is very marked in most lines, but we notice that the arithmeticians haven't changed their formulas a bit in very important respects. The multiplication tables is just as it was when we went to school, two and two still make four, the decimal point is still the most important factor in figuring interest and there has not been a single change made in the processes of addition and subtraction. The old annoyance of having to remember how much to carry over and having to remember when to add ten to whatever it is that you add to when you subtract still exists. Nine out of ten persons who have been taught by this system have no confidence in their ability to achieve a correct result and must needs do their necessary problems over again. Time worth $423,000,000 was lost last year in this way.

GIVING HIM FIRST CHANCE.

"You's got plenty of nerve. The idea of stealing my chickens and then trying to sell them to me."

"Well, sah, I thought you'd pay a better price for chickens you'd raised yo'self. You'd know what you're buyin'."—Boston Post.

It's impossible t' look after our business an' git so we kin win anything at golf. Lafe Bud an' his wife went t' th' the-ater last night, an' in spite o' th' crowd, they got as good seats as if they'd been deadheads.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

Here is a little problem which illustrates the feminine instinct for shopping Mrs. Bargainhunter purchased $1.30 worth of plates at the great china sale on Saturday, when 2 cents was marked off from every article. She returned them on Monday at regular prices, exchanging them for cups and saucers, one plate being worth a cup and saucer, so she got 16 more articles; but as saucers were worth only 3 cents she took 10 more saucers than cups.

Can you tell how many cups she could have bought with her money on Saturday?
